Third Supplement to Memorandum 71-32

Subject: Study 39.30 - Attachment, Garnishment, Execution (Earnings Protection Law--Retirement Funds Exemptions)

This memorandum presents for Commission consideration a draft provision (Exhibit II) relating to the exemption from attachment and execution of money held and in the process of distribution by a retirement plan. The proposal provides (1) a complete exemption for money held by a plan and (2) limited protection for money in the process of distribution.

The definition of "retirement plan" has been revised to include all plans which are actually designed and used to provide retirement, death, and disability benefits. Implicit in this definition is a denial of protection to a plan that is designed solely for the purpose of protecting an individual's assets from his creditors. The staff believes that this limitation on the exemption--which we would expect to be enforced by the courts--is adequate protection for creditors. We have accordingly eliminated the pro rata exception for annual contributions in a certain amount which was a feature of earlier drafts. It should be noted that Keogh Act plans are now included under Section 690.18 because they are embraced by both the broad definition and the specific reference to Corporations Code Section 28002 contained in subdivision (a).

Payments made pursuant to a retirement plan are made subject to the general earnings withholding procedure. Further research has disclosed, however, that the Legislature rather consistently has given broad protection to retirement benefits when paid--even to the extent in some cases of providing protection for benefits subsequently deposited or invested by the beneficiary.

See, e.g., Pub. Util. Code § 12337; Code Civ. Proc. § 690.18. See generally Exhibit I. Moreover, even the creditors who have attended our meetings seem to have been lukewarm towards the right to collect from retirement benefits. In view of the past legislative action, and the certain opposition which would be generated by a change, the staff wonders whether the Commission desires to reexamine its decision to limit the protection given to benefits distributed by a qualified plan. If the procedure proposed is approved, we should make conforming changes in these sections which now provide exemptions for a potpourri of retirement plans. See Exhibit I.

Respectfully submitted,

Jack I. Horton
Assistant Executive Secretary

EXHIBIT II

§ 690.18 (added). Retirement plan; exemption from attachment and execution

690.18. (a) As used in this section, "retirement plan" means a plan or system designed and used for the payment of retirement, disability, or death benefits, including, but not limited to, any retirement system as defined in Section 28002 of the Corporations Code, any union or joint employer-employee retirement or disability plan, any profit-sharing plan designed and used for retirement or disability purposes, and any public retirement or disability plan established by the state, or any county, city, or city and county, or other political subdivision of the state, or any public trust, public corporation, or public board.

(b) Except as provided in subdivision (c), there shall be exempt from attachment or execution all money, assets, and benefits held, controlled, or in the process of distribution by any retirement plan.

(c) All money in the process of distribution by any retirement plan, or currently payable pursuant to such plan, is exempt from attachment and execution in the amounts and manner specified in Section 690.6a. For the purpose of applying Section 690.6a to this subdivision:

(1) The beneficiary of the retirement plan shall be deemed an "employee" of the plan.

(2) The retirement plan shall be deemed an "employer."

(3) The money being distributed or currently payable by such plan to a person shall be deemed his "earnings."

(4) The interval at which the money is being distributed or is payable shall be deemed a "pay period."

Comment. Section 690.18 is substantially revised to provide exemptions for retirement benefits consistent with the purpose of providing adequate relief for retired persons generally as well as providing procedures for collection which are integrated with the Earnings Protection Law (Chapter 2.5 of this Title) <sup>and</sup> the exemption of earnings generally. These provisions apply equally to both public and private retirement plans. See subdivision (a).

Money (and other assets) held or controlled by or under any retirement or disability plan and not in the process of distribution are completely exempt from levy. See subdivision (b). This continues former law as to public plans and as to many private plans. See former Code of Civil Procedure Section 690.18, Cal. Stats. 1970, Ch. 1523, § 44.5; former Corporations Code Section 28005, Cal. Stats. 1970, Ch. 1443, § 4. New Section 690.18 provides the same protection for all bona fide retirement plans designed and used for the payment of retirement, death, and disability benefits.

When money is being or has been distributed to a retired or disabled person (or such person has the right to require them to be paid pursuant to the plan), such money is treated as "earnings" under Section 690.6a. Hence, it is subject to garnishment by the person's creditors in accordance with Chapter 2.5. See subdivision (c). Chapter 2.5 provides not only a procedure for collection (through service of a withholding order upon a person authorized to act on behalf of the retirement plan) but also substantial limitations on the amounts which can be withheld. See Sections 723.50 and 723.51.

Subdivision (b) of former Section 690.18 also protected certain benefits provided public employees under the Unemployment Insurance Code and vacation credits of such employees. The protection of unemployment benefits was duplicated and is continued under Section 690.175. Vacation credits are properly treated as earnings under the Earnings Protection Law. That is, they are subject to garnishment as earnings when paid. See Section 723.11.
