Statutory Clarification and Simplification of CID Law: Member Rights

In this study, the Commission is working on the reorganization and simplification of common interest development law. Memorandum 2005-25 presented the first installment of a staff draft tentative recommendation, which included preliminary provisions and material relating to the governing documents of a common interest development (“CID”).

This memorandum presents additional material, relating to homeowner association member rights and duties. That material is organized as a separate chapter, as follows:

CHAPTER 2. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF MEMBERS
   Article 1. Bill of Rights [Reserved]
   Article 2. Limitation of Association Authority to Regulate Property Use
   Article 3. Inspection of Records
   Article 4. Actions Requiring Member Approval
   Article 5. Member Duties

Article 1 will be reserved for future substantive study. Articles 2 and 3 are included in the attached draft. Articles 4 and 5 will be addressed in the next installment of this study.

The attached draft includes the new material that is discussed in this memorandum as well as previously reviewed material (for context). The draft includes notes requesting public comment on various issues.

Except where otherwise indicated, a statutory reference in this memorandum is to the Civil Code.

LIMITATION OF ASSOCIATION AUTHORITY TO REGULATE PROPERTY USE

It is common for the governing documents of a CID to limit or prohibit certain types of property use. For example, the governing documents may impose architectural controls or prohibit the operation of a home business.

There are a number of existing sections that limit the authority of the governing documents to regulate certain uses. To varying degrees, these provisions exempt the protected use from association control. For example, an association’s governing documents may not prohibit the display of the flag of the United States. See Section 1353.5.

The proposed law would gather such provisions into a single article for convenience. Issues relating to these provisions are discussed below.

Scope of Article

There are some property use provisions that apply to any type of deed-restricted property, including a CID. For example, Health and Safety Code Section 1597.40 provides in part that:

> every restriction or prohibition entered into, whether by way of covenant, condition upon use or occupancy, or upon transfer of title to real property, which restricts or prohibits directly, or indirectly limits, the acquisition, use, or occupancy of such property for a family day care home for children is void.

That would apply to a CID’s governing documents, but would also apply to a restriction applicable to a home that is not part of a CID.

It would not be appropriate to move these general provisions into the Davis-Stirling Act, which only governs CIDs.

Instead, the new article would include a provision making clear that other applicable property use protections exist and would provide a nonexclusive list of such provisions:

§ 4300. Application of article

4300. This article includes provisions that limit the authority of an association to regulate the use of a member’s separate interest. Nothing in this article is intended to affect the application of any other provision that limits the authority of an association to regulate the use of a member’s separate interest, including, but not limited to, the following provisions:

(a) Sections 712 and 713, relating to the display of signs.
(b) Sections 714 and 714.1, relating to solar energy systems.
(c) Section 714.5, relating to structures that are constructed offsite and moved to the property in sections or modules.
(d) Sections 782, 782.5, and 6150 of this code and Section 12956.1 of the Government Code, relating to racial restrictions.
(e) Section 12927 of the Government Code, relating to the modification of property to accommodate a disability.
(f) Section 1597.40 of the Health and Safety Code, relating to the operation of a family day care home.
Comment. Section 4300 is new. It provides a non-exclusive of provisions outside of this title that limit the authority of an association’s governing documents to restrict property use.

A note following Section 4300 requests comment on whether there are any other sections that should be added to the list of cross-references.

Noncommercial Display

There are two provisions in the Davis-Stirling Act that limit an association’s authority to regulate noncommercial displays. They overlap to a considerable extent, but have some differences. The sections are set out below, with substantively important differences highlighted in bold:

Civ. Code § 1353.5. Display of U.S. Flag

1353.5. (a) Except as required for the protection of the public health or safety, no declaration or other governing document shall limit or prohibit, or be construed to limit or prohibit, the display of the flag of the United States by an owner on or in the owner’s separate interest or within the owner’s exclusive use common area, as defined in Section 1351.

(b) For purposes of this section, “display of the flag of the United States” means a flag of the United States made of fabric, cloth, or paper displayed from a staff or pole or in a window, and does not mean a depiction or emblem of the flag of the United States made of lights, paint, roofing, siding, paving materials, flora, or balloons, or any other similar building, landscaping, or decorative component.

(c) In any action to enforce this section, the prevailing party shall be awarded reasonable attorney’s fees and costs.

Civ. Code § 1553.6. Noncommercial display

1553.6. (a) The governing documents, including the operating rules, may not prohibit posting or displaying of noncommercial signs, posters, flags, or banners on or in an owner’s separate interest, except as required for the protection of public health or safety or if the posting or display would violate a local, state, or federal law.

(b) For purposes of this section, a noncommercial sign, poster, flag, or banner may be made of paper, cardboard, cloth, plastic, or fabric, and may be posted or displayed from the yard, window, door, balcony, or outside wall of the separate interest, but may not be made of lights, roofing, siding, paving materials, flora, or balloons, or any other similar building, landscaping, or decorative component, or include the painting of architectural surfaces.

(c) An association may prohibit noncommercial signs and posters that are more than 9 square feet in size and noncommercial flags or banners that are more than 15 square feet in size.

Considering the degree of overlap between the two sections, it would make sense to combine them. However, in doing so the Commission should avoid giving the impression that the special status afforded the flag of the United States is being diluted.

With that in mind, there are two provisions in Section 1353.6 that should perhaps be applied to the U.S. flag as well as any other noncommercial display:

(1) The provision allowing the association to restrict a noncommercial display that conflicts with governing law. For example, suppose that a homeowner wishes to build a 30 foot flag pole in order to display a U.S. Flag. Local planning law prohibits a pole of that height. Shouldn't the association be able to use its authority to enforce that restriction?

(2) The provision setting a 15 square foot maximum size for flags. While a car dealership along a freeway might reasonably fly a flag larger than three feet by five, so that it can be seen from a great distance off, one might reasonably argue that the display of a very large flag is not appropriate in a residential community.

Proposed Section 4305 would generalize both of those rules, thus:

4305. (a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, the governing documents of an association may not prohibit the display of the flag of the United States or any other noncommercial sign, poster, flag, or banner within a member’s separate interest or exclusive use common area.

(b) Notwithstanding Section 434.4 of the Government Code, an association may prohibit the display of the flag of the United States or any other noncommercial sign, poster, flag, or banner within a member’s separate interest or exclusive use common area if any of the following conditions is satisfied:

(1) The display endangers public health or safety.
(2) The display violates a local, state, or federal statute or regulation.
(3) The display includes the painting of architectural surfaces, or includes lights, roofing, siding, paving materials, plants, or balloons, or any other building, landscaping, or architectural materials.
(4) The display is more than 9 square feet in size, or if the display is a flag, is more than 15 square feet in size.

(c) In an action under this section to challenge a prohibition on the display of the flag of the United States, the prevailing party shall be awarded reasonable attorney’s fees and costs.
Comment. Section 4305 continues former Sections 1355.5 and 1353.6 without substantive change, except that paragraphs (b)(2) and (b)(4) now apply to a flag of the United States.

That approach would implement reasonable reforms, in a single provision. However, it may turn out that even a relatively modest diminution of the right to display the Flag of the United States would be politically infeasible. If the proposed changes turn out to be controversial, the section could be revised to exempt the U.S. flag from one or both of paragraphs (b)(2) and (b)(4).

The reference in subdivision (b) to Government Code Section 434.5(b) is necessary because that provision is more protective of the right to display the flag:

(b)(1) No person, private entity, or governmental agency shall adopt any rule, regulation, or ordinance, or enter into any agreement or covenant, that prevents any person or private entity that would otherwise have the legal right to display a Flag of the United States on private property from exercising that right, unless it is used as, or in conjunction with, an advertising display.

(2) Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to prevent a city, county, or city and county from imposing reasonable restrictions as to the time, place, and manner of placement or display of a Flag of the United States when necessary for the preservation of the public’s health, safety, or order.

Section 1353.5 was probably intended to supersede Government Code Section 434.5. It is the more recently enacted provision and the more specific rule. Proposed Section 4305(b) states that result expressly, in order to avoid any uncertainty on the point.

Pets

Existing Section 1360.5 provides that governing documents created or amended after January 1, 2001, may not prohibit the ownership of at least one pet. That provision is continued in proposed Section 4310.

There are two minor problems with this section that are worth discussing.

Meaning of “Pet”

Section 1360.5(b) defines “pet” as “any domesticated bird, cat, dog, aquatic animal kept within an aquarium, or other animal as agreed to between the association and the homeowner.” That definition seems a bit narrow. For example, it would exclude common domesticated rodent pets, such as a hamster or guinea pig.

We could perhaps add domesticated rodents to the list. Or we could recast the definition in broad terms, i.e., “any domesticated animal other than livestock.” Either approach would be reasonable, given the apparent purpose of the section to allow a homeowner to keep at least one ordinary companion animal.

However, any perceived broadening of the pet override may be controversial. The staff is inclined to leave existing law on this point unchanged.

Grandparent Clause

Existing Section 1360.5(e) provides:

(c) If the association implements a rule or regulation restricting the number of pets an owner may keep, the new rule or regulation shall not apply to prohibit an owner from continuing to keep any pet that the owner currently keeps in his or her separate interest if the pet otherwise conforms with the previous rules or regulations relating to pets.

This is a fairly straightforward “grandparent clause.” If you keep a pet that complies with the rules, and the rules are changed to preclude your keeping the pet, the new rule doesn’t apply to your pet. However, there are some minor issues relating to this provision that might be worth addressing:

(1) What is meant by “rule or regulation”? The proposed law replaces that ambiguous term with the defined term “governing documents.”

(2) Why is the provision limited to a rule change that limits the number of pets that a member may keep? Suppose that the prior rule allowed an owner to keep one pet. Consistent with that rule, an owner keeps a hamster in her separate interest. The rule is then amended to prohibit hamsters, without affecting the number of pets that may be kept. By its terms, the grandparent clause would not protect the owner’s right to keep her hamster.

The staff sees no policy reason why a rule limiting the number of pets should be subject to a grandparent clause, while a rule limiting the kinds of pets is not.

The proposed law would revise the grandparent clause to apply to any rule change that would restrict the right to keep a pet.

Consistent with the foregoing, proposed Section 4310(c) would provide:
(c) If the governing documents are amended to restrict the right to keep a pet in the common interest development, the new restriction shall not apply to an existing pet so long as the pet is kept in compliance with the governing documents as they existed before the addition of the new restriction.

Modification of Separate Interest

Existing Section 1360 relates to modification of separate interest property. The section is set out below, with language relevant to the discussion that follows highlighted in bold:

1360. (a) Subject to the provisions of the governing documents and other applicable provisions of law, if the boundaries of the separate interest are contained within a building, the owner of the separate interest may do the following:

1. Make any improvements or alterations within the boundaries of his or her separate interest that do not impair the structural integrity or mechanical systems or lessen the support of any portions of the common interest development.

2. Modify a unit in a condominium project, at the owner’s expense, to facilitate access for persons who are blind, visually handicapped, deaf, or physically disabled, or to alter conditions which could be hazardous to these persons. These modifications may also include modifications of the route from the public way to the door of the unit for the purposes of this paragraph if the unit is on the ground floor or already accessible by an existing ramp or elevator. The right granted by this paragraph is subject to the following conditions:

   A. The modifications shall be consistent with applicable building code requirements.

   B. The modifications shall be consistent with the intent of otherwise applicable provisions of the governing documents pertaining to safety or aesthetics.

   C. Modifications external to the dwelling shall not prevent reasonable passage by other residents, and shall be removed by the owner when the unit is no longer occupied by persons requiring those modifications who are blind, visually handicapped, deaf, or physically disabled.

   D. Any owner who intends to modify a unit pursuant to this paragraph shall submit his or her plans and specifications to the association of the condominium project for review to determine whether the modifications will comply with the provisions of this paragraph. The association shall not deny approval of the proposed modifications under this paragraph without good cause.

(b) Any change in the exterior appearance of a separate interest shall be in accordance with the governing documents and applicable provisions of law.
Limitation to Self-Contained Units

Subdivision (a) is limited in application to a separate interest that is contained within the boundaries of a building. Subdivision (a)(1) is then further limited, to a self-contained unit in a condominium project. It isn’t clear why these limitations exist.

Subdivision (a)(1) makes clear that a modification of a separate interest may not “impair the structural integrity or mechanical systems or lessen the support of any portions of the common interest development.” Wouldn’t that concern apply equally in any CID? For example, a row of townhouses may not be entirely contained within a building (i.e., they may have yards), but may still share common walls, ceilings, plumbing, and wiring. Why shouldn’t such homes be governed by subdivision (a)(1)?

Subdivision (a)(2) provides rules for a property change made to accommodate a disability. Again, why wouldn’t concerns about disability accommodation apply equally to the hypothetical townhomes, or even to fully detached homes?

If the Commission decides to preserve the substance of subdivision (a), the staff would recommend that the limitations on its application be removed.

Relation to Governing Documents

At first glance, Section 1360(a) might appear to guarantee a member’s right to modify a separate interest in a unit that is wholly within a building’s envelope. Subdivision (a)(1) guarantees the right to make any kind of internal modification, so long as it does not interfere with common structures, systems, or support. Subdivision (a)(2) guarantees the right to make a modification necessary to accommodate a disability, so long as it does not interfere with other residents’ access to their units.

However, in each case the right to modify the separate interest is expressly subordinate to any restrictions imposed by the governing documents. Subdivision (a) is introduced with the clause “Subject to the provisions of the governing documents and other applicable provisions of law....” Subdivision (a)(2)(B) provides that a modification to accommodate a disability must be “consistent with the intent of otherwise applicable provisions of the governing documents pertaining to safety or aesthetics.” Subdivision (a)(2)(D) expressly requires association approval of a modification to accommodate a disability. The association may not disapprove the change without “good cause” but “good cause” apparently includes purely aesthetic considerations.

If the modifications described in Section 1360(a) are subject to the requirements of the governing documents, then they are no different from any other proposed modification of a member’s separate interest property.

Subdivision (b) states that a change to the exterior of a unit must be consistent with the governing documents and controlling law. Again, that’s true of any change to a separate interest.

Section 1360 doesn’t seem to add anything substantively. What’s more, it may be misleading, giving a false impression that it creates a right to make some types of architectural changes without association approval.

Relation to Other Disability Provisions

Section 1360 seems to be primarily concerned with facilitating a property change that is necessary to accommodate a disability. That concern is also addressed, more comprehensively, in Section 1378(a)(3):

\text{A decision on a proposed change [to separate interest property] shall be consistent with any governing provision of law, including, but not limited to, the Fair Employment and Housing Act (Part 2.8 (commencing with Section 12900) of Division 3 of Title 2 of the Government Code.}

The Commission Comment to that provision elaborates:

\text{An association decision on a proposed physical change must be consistent with governing law. For example, the Fair Employment and Housing Act prohibits discrimination “through public or private land use practices, decisions, and authorizations.” Gov’t Code § 12955(l). See also Gov’t Code § 12927(c)(1) (“Discrimination” includes “refusal to permit, at the expense of the disabled person, reasonable modifications of existing premises occupied or to be occupied by the disabled person, if the modifications may be necessary to afford the disabled person full enjoyment of the premises ... and includes refusal to make reasonable accommodations in rules, policies, practices, or services when these accommodations may be necessary to afford a disabled person equal opportunity to use and enjoy a dwelling.”).}

Section 1378 seems superior to Section 1360. It applies to any CID unit and not just to a unit that is wholly contained within a building. It does not subordinate the disabled person’s right to mere aesthetic concerns (though those concerns might well be taken into account in determining whether a proposed modification is “reasonable”). What’s more, fair housing law is a mature body of law. It seems preferable to simply cross-refer to that law, rather than to try to articulate a handful of related principles, as Section 1360 seems to do.

Recommendation

The staff recommends that Section 1360 not be continued in its present form. Instead, we should add the following Commission note following proposed Section 4300:

Note that existing Section 1360 would not be continued in the proposed law. The section provides rules for a modification that is necessary to accommodate a disability. It is limited by its own terms to a separate interest that is wholly contained within a building (e.g., a condominium unit).

The issue of accommodation of a disability is addressed more comprehensively in Government Code Section 12927. Proposed Section 4300(e) acknowledges the application of that section to a CID. See also [Section 1378] (association decision on modification of separate interest must comply with Fair Employment and Housing Act). The Commission requests input on whether the omission of existing Section 1360 would cause any problems.

INSPECTION OF RECORDS

An important check on association power is a member’s right to inspect association records. This allows a member to monitor how the association’s elected representatives are discharging their duties and spending association money.

Existing Law

Until recently, record inspection rights were addressed exclusively by Corporations Code Sections 8330-8338. Those sections provide for member access to the membership list and “accounting books and records” of the association, as well as minutes of meetings. The right to inspect the membership list is limited to a noncommercial use of the list that is reasonably related to the member’s interest as a member. Corp. Code § 8338. Inspection may be limited in order to protect members’ privacy rights. Corp. Code § 8332. The inspection right can be enforced in the superior court. Corp. Code § 8336. Costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees, may be awarded to the member if the association acted unlawfully in denying inspection. Corp. Code § 8337.
The Davis-Stirling Act expressly incorporates those provisions. See Section 1363(f). As a result, they apply to any association, even one that is unincorporated.

In 2003, the Legislature added a section to the Davis-Stirling Act to further elaborate the record inspection right. See Section 1365.2; 2003 Cal. Stat. ch. 375.

Section 1365.2 adds rules on the place and manner of inspection of records, including rules for redaction of private or privileged information. It expressly provides for disclosure of employee and contractor salaries (by position rather than by named individual). An association that unreasonably denies access to records is now subject to a civil penalty of up to $500.

Pending Legislation

A pending bill, AB 1098 (Jones), would significantly rework the rules for record inspection. It would repeal existing Section 1365.2 and add a new section with the same number (“pending Section 1365.2”). Pending Section 1365.2 addresses a wide range of record inspection issues. By its own terms, it would preempt inconsistent provisions of Corporations Code Sections 8330 and 8333.

The bill was approved by both houses, with wide margins, and is currently on its way to the Governor’s desk. Informal staff inquiries suggest that the bill will be enacted.

The operation of AB 1098 is contingent on enactment of SB 61 (Battin), which would add provisions regulating CID elections. That bill was approved unanimously in both houses and is also expected to be enacted.

Given the likelihood that AB 1098 will be enacted and will take effect on July 1, 2006 (it has a deferred operative date), the attached draft takes it as a starting point. The proposed law would implement the substance of the bill with some technical and organizational changes to conform to the overall style of the proposed law.

If AB 1098 or SB 61 is vetoed, then we will need to revisit the draft to make any necessary adjustments.

Preemption of Corporations Code

Pending Section 1365.2(m) expressly preempts Corporations Code Sections 8330 and 8333, to the extent of any inconsistency. That leaves a high degree of overlap between the Davis-Stirling Act and the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, along with some uncertainty as to which provisions of pending Section 1365.2 are “inconsistent” with the Corporations Code.
Given the complexity that will result from this overlap, the staff recommends that the proposed law completely preempt the Corporations Code provisions on record inspection. This will provide a single, clear, comprehensive source of law on the topic. That is the approach taken in the attached draft. See proposed Section 4560(c).

Deadlines

Pending Section 1365.2(j) sets out a series of time frames for response to a record inspection request:

The timeframes in which access to specified records shall be provided to a requesting member is as follows:

1. Association records prepared during the current fiscal year, within 10 business days following the association’s receipt of the request.
2. Association records prepared during the previous two fiscal years, within 30 calendar days following the association’s receipt of the request.
3. Any record or statement available pursuant to Section 1365 or 1368, within the timeframe specified therein.
4. Minutes of member and board meetings, within the timeframe specified in subdivision (d) of Section 1363.05.
5. Minutes of meetings of committees with decision-making authority for meetings commencing on or after January 1, 2007, within 15 calendar days following approval.
6. Membership list, within the timeframe specified in Section 8330 of the Corporations Code.

Presumably, the deadline periods reflect the fact that there will be some time required to process a request, locate the requested document, make any necessary redactions (see proposed Section 4510), and make the document available. This is especially true of an association that does not have a management company handling its document inspection requests; the work involved would need to be completed by a volunteer.

The general rules provided in pending subdivision (j)(1)-(2) are fairly straightforward. For current documents, the period is 10 business days. For older records, the deadline is 30 calendar days. That makes sense. Older documents may need to be pulled from storage.

However, the special rules provided for specific types of documents should probably be simplified.

Proposed Section 4505(b) provides:
(b) Except as provided in Sections 4510, 4515 and 4525, the association shall make the requested record available for inspection according to the following deadlines:

1. For a record prepared in the current fiscal year, within 10 business days after the request is delivered.
2. For a record prepared in a prior fiscal year, within 30 calendar days after the request is delivered.
3. For a record that has not yet been prepared, within 10 business days after the request is delivered or the record is prepared, whichever is later.
4. For the membership list, within five business days.

This would continue most of the substance of the existing time frames, while adding an exception for a document that has not yet been prepared.

Scope of Inspection Right

Pending Section 1365.2 spells out which types of records are subject to inspection. Proposed Section 4500 continues the substance of those provisions, with a few minor refinements:

Interim Unaudited Financial Statements

The list of association records subject to member inspection includes the following (in pending Section 1365.2(a)(1)(C)):

Interim unaudited financial statements, periodic or as compiled, containing any of the following:

i. Balance sheet.
ii. Income and expense statement.
iii. Budget comparison.
iv. General ledger. A “general ledger” is a report that shows all transactions that occurred in an association account over a specified period of time.

The records described in this paragraph shall be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

The staff is not sure of the purpose served by the introductory clause above. Is it a limitation? That is, does it exempt a financial statement that is not “interim” or “unaudited” from member inspection?

The staff feels that there is a legitimate member interest in final and audited documents as well. The limiting introductory clause is not continued in the attached draft.

Note that the final sentence, relating to the use of accepted accounting standards, is extraneous to the question of what records are subject to member inspection. It is not included in this part of the proposed law. The staff has made a note to revisit the provision when we get to financial matters generally.

Redaction

Pending Section 1365.2 provides some protection against identity theft, fraud, and invasion of privacy by listing certain types of information that an association may redact before allowing inspection of a record.

It isn’t clear why the redaction provision is optional. It would probably be best that the association never disclose such things as a member’s social security number or checking account number.

The attached draft would make redaction mandatory. The staff invites comments on the merits of that change.

Note that pending Section 1365.2 limits the liability of the association and its officers and agents for a breach of the duty to redact personal information. That rule is continued in proposed Section 4550. A note following that section asks whether the liability limitation should be strengthened.

Membership List

Existing law limits member access to the association’s membership list. The purpose of the inspection request must be noncommercial and reasonably related to the member’s interest as a member. Corp. Code § 8330. Thus, a membership list could be requested in order to circulate a director recall petition, but could not be used to solicit donations for a charitable group or to promote a home business.

If the association reasonably believes that the list will be used for an impermissible purpose, it may deny the request. Id. A decision to deny access to the list may lead to judicial enforcement proceedings. Enforcement is discussed below.

Note that an association may offer an alternative to disclosure of the membership list. For example, the association could offer to mail materials for the requesting member in order to achieve the purpose of the request without actually providing the member a copy of the membership list. Corp. Code § 8330(c). An offer of a reasonable alternative can be raised as legal justification for a decision to deny a request to inspect the list. Corp. Code § 8331(f)(2).

An association may also petition the court to limit disclosure of the membership list where limitation is necessary to protect any member’s constitutional rights (e.g., the right to privacy). Corp. Code § 8332. If the court grants the petition, it may order implementation of a reasonable alternative method of achieving the member’s purpose (e.g., association mailing of material).

Privacy concerns are also addressed by pending Section 1365.2. It would provide an opt-out mechanism. A member who does not want his or her name and address provided to other members may file a written request to that effect with the association. The association will then exclude that member’s information from any membership list provided to a member. Instead, the association will mail the requesting members’ materials to those who have opted out. That approach helps to protect member privacy.

The attached draft continues the existing privacy protections.

Judicial Enforcement

Existing law provides the following judicial proceedings relating to member inspection of association records:

(1) Action to Set Aside Request for Membership List. If an association believes in good faith and with a substantial basis that the member requesting the membership list will misuse the list or if the association offers a reasonable alternative method to achieve the requesting member’s purpose (e.g., association mailing of materials), the association may initiate an action in the superior court to set aside the request. Corp. Code § 8331(a).

The association must file its petition within ten days after receipt of the request or rejection of the association’s proposed alternative (whichever is later). In cases of justified delay, the filing may take place up to 30 days after the request or rejection (whichever is later). If the association fails to file within that period it must comply with the demand and cannot file an action under Section 8331. Corp. Code § 8331(c), (e).

If the association proves that there is a reasonable probability of misuse of the list or that its proposed alternative would reasonably achieve the requesting member’s purpose, the court shall issue a final order setting aside the demand. The order can include an order that an alternative method of distributing materials be used. Corp. Code § 8331(f)-(g).

A member who successfully defends against an action to set aside the demand is entitled to reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees. Corp. Code § 8331(h).

(2) Writ of Mandamus to Compel Production of Membership List. If an association has not complied with a demand for the membership list and there is no judicial stay or protective order preventing production of the list, the member making the request may petition for a writ of mandamus to compel production of the list. The court may not inquire into the purpose of the inspection request. If the court issues the writ, it may award the member reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees. Corp. Code § 8331(i).

(3) Petition to Limit Disclosure of Membership List on Constitutional Grounds. An association or any member may petition the court to limit inspection of the membership list in order to protect the constitutional rights of any member. If granted, the order may provide for an alternative method of distributing materials. Corp. Code § 8332.

(4) General Action to Enforce Inspection Right. If an association refuses a lawful demand to inspect association records, the requesting member may petition the superior court to enforce the demand. Corp. Code § 8336. The court may enforce the demand and can appoint an inspector or accountant to audit the financial statements. The court’s order is enforceable by punishment for contempt. The costs associated with the investigation are generally to be borne by the requesting member, but the court may order that they be paid or shared by the association. Id.

Note that the Davis-Stirling Act adds a provision authorizing a civil penalty against an association of up to $500 per violation. Section 1365.2(e). Pending Section 1365.2(f) would make clear that an action of this type could be brought in small claims court. It also adds a provision authorizing an award to the association of reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees, if the court finds that the member’s action was “frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation.”

(5) Order to Postpone. In addition to other remedies, if a requesting member’s purpose is frustrated by delay in complying with an inspection request, the member may petition for a court order to postpone a scheduled member meeting by a period equal to the period of delay. Corp. Code § 8335.

(6) General Fee Shifting Provision. In any of the proceedings described above, if the court determines that the association’s failure to comply with a lawful inspection request was unjustified, it can award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees, to the requesting member. Corp. Code § 8337.

(7) Action for Misuse of Membership List. A person who misuses a membership list is liable for damages, must disgorge any profits derived from the misuse, and may be subject to exemplary damages. The association may also seek an injunction to restrain the misuse. In such an action, the court may award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees, to the association. Corp. Code § 8338(b).
(8) Action for Misuse of Other Records. Rules equivalent to those governing an action for misuse of a membership list have been added in the Davis-Stirling Act to provide an action for misuse of accounting books and records and minutes. Section 1365.2(d).

The attached draft simplifies the provisions for judicial enforcement. It also expressly incorporates the existing internal dispute resolution mechanism.

Proposed Section 4525 states the substantive limitations on use of association records and authorizes the association to deny a request when it reasonably believes that the records will be misused or that disclosure would violate a member’s constitutional rights.

Proposed Section 4530 provides a procedure for denial of a record inspection request. It requires a formal notice of denial, which includes an offer to use the association’s internal dispute resolution process. If the member objects to the denial decision, then the association must either comply with the request or commence a proceeding to set aside the request. If the member does not object in the time provided, then the request is nullified and the association need do nothing further.

Proposed Section 4535 authorizes an action, brought by the association, to set aside a record inspection request. It is a simplified synthesis of existing procedures:

4535. (a) An association that has complied with Section 4530 may file a petition to set aside a record inspection request. The petition shall be filed within 10 business days after the requesting member delivers a timely objection pursuant to subdivision (c) of Section 4530. Notwithstanding the other provisions of this subdivision, the association may file a petition within 30 days after delivery of the objection if it can show that the delay was caused by excusable neglect.

(b) In an action to set aside a record inspection request, the association bears the burden of proving that it is reasonably likely that disclosure of the requested record would lead to misuse of the record, that disclosure would violate a member’s constitutional rights, or that inspection of the record is not required under this article.

(c) If the court finds that it is reasonably likely that disclosure of the requested record would lead to misuse of the record or would violate a member’s constitutional rights, or that inspection of the record is not required under this article, it may order that the record inspection request be set aside.

(d) The court may order any other relief appropriate to the circumstances, including the following relief:
(1) An order requiring that the association distribute material to the membership on behalf of the requesting member, in lieu of disclosing the membership list.

(2) The tolling of any deadline affected by association delay in providing access to a record.

(3) The postponement of a scheduled board or member meeting, if association delay in providing access to a record would prejudice the requesting member’s interest in a decision to be made at the meeting.

(4) The appointment of an investigator or accountant to inspect or audit association records on behalf of the requesting member. The cost of investigation shall ordinarily be paid by the requesting member, but the court may order that the association pay or share in the cost.

(e) If the court does not set the record inspection request aside, it shall award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees, to the requesting member.

(f) Nothing in this section limits the right of the association to bring an action under Section 4545.

There are three noteworthy differences between existing law and proposed Section 4535:

(1) Existing law includes an “order to show cause” mechanism that is not continued in proposed Section 4535. The staff feels that this procedural simplification is appropriate in dealing with such a relatively straightforward type of dispute. This is especially true if the homeowner is self-represented (as many homeowners requesting association documents will be).

(2) Existing law recognizes three grounds to set aside a record request: probable misuse of the record, infringement on member constitutional rights, and the reasonableness of any alternative to inspection proposed by the association. Proposed Section 4535 does not continue the third ground.

A rule allowing judicial action based on a proposed alternative to inspection invites association evasion and foot dragging. An association that does not wish to comply can simply offer an alternative and then file an action to set the request aside. If the member cannot or chooses not to participate in litigation, then the inspection right is stymied, however legitimate the member’s purpose.

Under the proposed law, an association is free to offer an alternative to inspection, which the member is free to accept. However, the offer of an alternative does not provide grounds for litigation.
Proposed Section 4535 adds a third ground to set aside a record inspection request: that the requested record is not subject to inspection under the record inspection article.

Proposed Section 4540 authorizes an action, brought by the requesting member, to compel compliance with a record inspection request. This presents a small number of fairly straightforward factual questions: is the requested record subject to inspection, did the requesting member follow procedures, is an action pending to set the request aside, or was the request in fact set aside by the court? Those matters could be resolved in the small claims court if the member chooses that forum. (Pending Section 1365.2 provides for use of the small claims court to enforce the inspection right.)

4540. (a) If an association has not complied with a document inspection request within the time provided, and that failure is not excused under subdivision (c), the requesting member may file an action in small claims court or in the superior court to compel compliance.

(b) If the court finds that the failure to comply with the record inspection request is not excused, it shall order compliance. The court may order any other relief appropriate to the circumstances, including the following relief:

(1) Imposition of a civil penalty of up to $500 against the association.

(2) The tolling of any deadline affected by association delay in providing access to a record.

(3) The postponement of a scheduled board or member meeting, if association delay in providing access to a record would prejudice the requesting member’s interest in a decision to be made at the meeting.

(4) The appointment of an investigator or accountant to inspect or audit association records on behalf of the requesting member. The cost of investigation shall ordinarily be borne by the requesting member, but the court may order that the association bear or share the cost.

(c) Failure to comply with a record inspection request is excused if one of the following conditions is satisfied:

(1) The request was nullified as a result of the requesting member’s failure to deliver a timely objection to the board.

(2) An action is pending under Section 4535.

(3) The record inspection request was set aside by a court pursuant to Section 4535.

(4) The requested record is not subject to disclosure under this article.

(d) If the court orders compliance with the record inspection request, it shall award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees, to the requesting member. If the court does not order compliance with the record inspection request and it finds that the claim for enforcement was frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation, it may award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees, to the association.

The Comments and note following these provisions highlight differences from existing law and raise a substantive question about the provision for costs and fees in proposed Section 4540.

Record Retention

Pending Section 1365.2 provides for inspection of records prepared in the current fiscal year and in the two preceding fiscal years. Subdivision (l) of that section provides:

There shall be no liability pursuant to this section for an association that fails to retain records for the periods specified in subdivision (i) that were created prior to January 1, 2006.

The final clause of that provision implies that there may be liability for failure to retain records created on or after January 1, 2006. However, it does not state an affirmative duty to maintain records for any period of time or specify what the potential scope of liability would be.

The record retention liability provision is not included in the attached draft. Instead, the staff has made a note to consider recordkeeping issues when working with the material on general board duties.

Respectfully submitted,

Brian Hebert
Assistant Executive Secretary

PROPOSED LEGISLATION

☞ Staff Note. This is a work in progress. The proposed organizational structure and section numbering may change. Additional material will be added. Accordingly, some cross-references have not yet been updated. These references appear within [brackets] or as underscored spaces: ____.

Civ. Code §§ 4000-____ (added). Common Interest Developments

SEC. ___. Part 5 (commencing with Section 4000) is added to Division 4 of the Civil Code, to read:

PART 5. COMMON INTEREST DEVELOPMENTS

CHAPTER 1. PRELIMINARY PROVISIONS

§ 4000. Short title

4000. This title shall be known and may be cited as the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act.

Comment. Section 4000 continues former Section 1350 without change.

§ 4005. Effect of headings

4005. Division, part, title, chapter, article, and section headings do not in any manner affect the scope, meaning, or intent of this part.

Comment. Section 4005 continues former Section 1350.5 without substantive change. It is a standard provision found in many codes. See, e.g., Evid. Code § 5; Fam. Code § 5; Prob. Code § 4.

§ 4010. Continuation of prior law

4010. A provision of this part, insofar as it is substantially the same as a previously existing provision relating to the same subject matter, shall be considered as a restatement and continuation thereof and not as a new enactment, and a reference in a statute to the provision of this part shall be deemed to include a reference to the previously existing provision unless a contrary intent appears.

Comment. The first part of Section 4010 is new. It is a standard provision found in many codes. See, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code § 2; Corp. Code § 2; Fam. Code § 2; Prob. Code § 2(a); Veh. Code § 2. See also Gov’t Code §§ 9604 (construction of restatements and continuations), 9605 (construction of amended statutory provision). The last clause makes clear that a statutory reference to a provision within this part includes a reference to the former law from which it is drawn. Cf. Gov’t Code § 9604 (reference to previously existing provision deemed reference to restatement or continuation).

A number of terms and phrases are used in the Comments to the sections of this part to indicate the sources of the sections and to describe how they compare with prior law. The following discussion is intended to provide guidance in interpreting the terminology most commonly used in the Comments.

(1) Continues without change. A new provision “continues” a former provision “without change” if the two provisions are identical or nearly so. In some cases, there may be insignificant technical differences, such as where punctuation is changed without a change in meaning. Some Comments may describe the relationship by simply stating that the Family Code provision “continues” or is “the same as” a former provision, or is “the same as” a provision of a uniform act.

(2) Continues without substantive change. A new provision “continues” a former provision “without substantive change” if the substantive law remains the same, but the language differs to an insignificant degree.

(3) Restates without substantive change. A new provision “restates” a former provision “without substantive change” if the substantive law remains the same but the language differs to a significant degree. Some Comments may describe the new provision as being the “same in substance.”

(4) Exceptions, additions, omissions. If part of a former provision is “continued” or “restated,” the Comment may say that the former provision is continued or restated, but also note the specific differences as “exceptions to,” “additions to,” or “omissions from” the former provision.

(5) Generalizes, broadens, restates in general terms. A new provision may be described as “generalizing,” “broadening,” or “restating in general terms” a provision of prior law. This description means that a limited rule has been expanded to cover a broader class of cases.

(6) Supersedes, replaces. A provision “supersedes” or “replaces” a former provision if the new provision deals with the same subject as the former provision, but treats it in a significantly different manner.

New. A provision is described as “new” where it has no direct source in prior statutes.

(8) Drawn from, similar to, consistent with. A variety of terms are used to indicate a source for a new provision, typically a source other than California statutes. For example, a provision may be “drawn from” a uniform act, model code, or the statutes of another state. In these cases, it may be useful to consult any available commentary or interpretation of the source from which the new provision is drawn for background information.

(9) Codifies. A Comment may state that a new provision “codifies” a case-law rule that has not previously been enacted into statutory law.

(10) Makes clear, clarifies. A new provision may be described as “making clear” a particular rule or “clarifying” a rule as a way of emphasizing the rule, particularly if the situation under prior law was doubtful or contradictory.

Statement in Comment that section is “comparable” to another section. A Comment may state that a provision is “comparable” to another provision. If the Comment to a section notes that another section is “comparable,” that does not mean that the other section is the same or substantially the same. The statement is included in the Comment so that the statute user is alerted to the other section and can review the cases under that section for possible use in interpreting the statement containing the in the Comment.

§ 4015. Application of part

4015. (a) This part applies to a common interest development.

(b) Nothing in this part may be construed to apply to a development wherein there does not exist a common area.

Comment. Subdivision (a) of Section 4015 continues part of the substance of former Section 1352. The part of former Section 1352 that is not continued in this section is continued in Section 6000 (creation of common interest development).

Subdivision (b) continues the substance of former Section 1374 without substantive change.

See also Section 4090 (“common area”), 4095 (“common interest development”).
Staff Notes. (1) The language in subdivision (b) is consistent with Senate Bill 853 (Kehoe), which would amend Section 1374 to remove unnecessary language.

(2) Is subdivision (b) necessary, given that the definition of “common interest development” requires the existence of common area? See proposed Section 4095.

§ 4020. Nonresidential development

4020. (a) The following provisions do not apply to a common interest development that is limited to industrial or commercial uses by zoning or by a declaration of covenants, conditions, and restrictions that is recorded in the official records of each county in which the common interest development is located:

(1) [Section 1356.]

(2) Article 5 (commencing with Section 6100) of Chapter 5.

(3) [Subdivision (b) of Section 1363.]

(4) [Section 1365.]

(5) [Section 1365.5.]

(6) [Subdivision (b) of Section 1366.]

(7) [Section 1366.1.]

(8) [Section 1368.]

(9) [Section 1378.]

(b) The Legislature finds that the provisions listed in subdivision (a) are appropriate to protect purchasers in residential common interest developments, however, the provisions may not be necessary to protect purchasers in commercial or industrial developments since the application of those provisions could result in unnecessary burdens and costs for those types of developments.

Comment. Section 4020 continues former Section 1373 without substantive change. See also Section 4095 (“common interest development”).

§ 4025. Application of Corporations Code

4025. (a) An association that is incorporated is governed by this part and by the Corporations Code.

(b) An association that is not incorporated is governed by this part and by any provision of the Corporations Code that is applicable pursuant to this part.

(c) If a provision of this part conflicts with a provision of the Corporations Code, the provision of this part prevails to the extent of the inconsistency.

Comment. Section 4025 is new. See also Section 4080 (“association”).

§ 4030. Construction of zoning ordinance

4030. Unless a contrary intent is clearly expressed, a local zoning ordinance shall be construed to treat like structures, lots, parcels, areas, or spaces in like manner regardless of whether the common interest development is a community apartment project, condominium project, planned development, or stock cooperative.

Comment. Section 4030 continues former Section 1372 without substantive change.
See also Sections 4095 ("common interest development"), 4115 ("condominium project"), 4165 ("planned development"), 4180 ("stock cooperative").

§ 4035. "Delivered to the board"

4035. Where a provision of this part requires that a document be “delivered to the board” the document shall be delivered by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to the person designated in the annual statement (Section ___) to receive documents on behalf of the association. If no person has been designated to receive documents, the document shall be delivered to the president of the association. Delivery is deemed to be complete on deposit into the United States mail.

Comment. Section 4035 is new. It provides a standard rule for delivery of a document to the board.

See also Sections 4080 ("association"), 4085 ("board"), 4160 ("person").

Staff Note. The staff intends, in a future installment of the proposed law, to add a provision consolidating all of the various annual reporting requirements. See, e.g., existing Sections 1365 (financial statement), 1369.590 (ADR requirements), 1378(c) (architectural review requirements). The incomplete reference in Section 4035 will be completed at that time.

§ 4040. "Individual notice"

4040. (a) Where a provision of this part requires “individual notice,” the notice shall be delivered by one of the following methods:

(1) Personal delivery.

(2) First-class mail, postage prepaid, addressed to a member at the address last shown on the books of the association or otherwise provided by the member. Delivery is deemed to be complete on deposit into the United States mail.

(3) E-mail, facsimile, or other electronic means, if the recipient has agreed to that method of delivery. If a document is delivered by electronic means, delivery is complete at the time of transmission.

(4) Any other method of delivery that is reasonably calculated to provide actual notice to the recipient.

(b) For the purposes of this section, an unrecorded provision of the governing documents providing for a particular method of delivery does not constitute agreement by a member of the association to that method of delivery.

Comment. Section 4040 is new.

See also Sections 4080 ("association"), 4140 ("governing documents"), 4150 ("member").

§ 4045. "General notice"

4045. (a) Where a provision of this part requires "general notice," the notice shall be provided to all members by one or more of the following methods:

(1) Personal delivery.

(2) First-class mail, postage prepaid, addressed to a member at the address last shown on the books of the association or otherwise provided by the member. Delivery is deemed to be complete on deposit into the United States mail.
(3) E-mail, facsimile, or other electronic means, if the recipient has agreed to that method of delivery. If a document is delivered by electronic means, delivery is complete at the time of transmission.

(4) By publication in a periodical that is circulated primarily to members of the association.

(5) If the association broadcasts television programming for the purpose of distributing information on association business to its members, by inclusion in the programming.

(6) Any other method of delivery, provided that the recipient has agreed to that method of delivery.

(7) Inclusion in a billing statement, newsletter, or other document that is delivered by one of the methods provided in this section.

(b) For the purposes of this section, an unrecorded provision of the governing documents providing for a particular method of delivery does not constitute agreement by a member of the association to that method of delivery.

Comment. Section 4045 restates former Section 1350.7. See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4140 (“governing documents”), 4150 (“member”).

§ 4050. Approved by the board

4050. Where a provision of this part requires that an action be approved by the board, the action shall be approved or ratified by the vote of the board or by the vote of a committee authorized to exercise the powers of the board, at a meeting that is open to the members and at which members may comment on the proposed amendment.

Comment. Section 4050 is comparable to Corporations Code Section 5032. It is added for drafting convenience. See also Sections 4085 (“board”), 4150 (“member”).

☞ Staff Note. Consistent with existing open meeting requirements, Section 4050 requires that an action be approved by the board or a committee at an open meeting. As new material is added to the proposed law, the staff will consider whether any circumstances exist in which board approval should occur in executive session.

§ 4055. Approved by a majority of all members

4055. Where a provision of this part requires that an action be approved by a majority of all members, the action shall be approved or ratified by an affirmative vote of members representing more than 50 percent of the total voting power of the association, or if the governing documents of an association divide the members into two or more classes for the purposes of voting, by an affirmative vote of members representing more than 50 percent of the voting power in each class that is required to approve the action.

Comment. Section 4055 is comparable to Corporations Code Section 5033. It is added for drafting convenience. See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4140 (“governing documents”), 4150 (“member”).
§ 4060. Approved by a majority of a quorum of the members

4060. Where a provision of this part requires that an action be approved by a majority of a quorum of the members, the action shall be approved or ratified by an affirmative vote of members representing more than 50 percent of the votes cast in an election at which a quorum is achieved, or if the governing documents of an association divide the members into two or more classes for the purposes of voting, by an affirmative vote of members representing more than 50 percent of the votes cast in an election at which a quorum is achieved, in each class that is required to approve the action.

Comment. Section 4060 is comparable to Corporations Code Section 5034. It is added for drafting convenience.

See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4140 (“governing documents”), 4150 (“member”).

Article 2. Definitions

§ 4075. Application of definitions

4075. Unless the provision or context otherwise requires, the definitions in this article govern the construction of this part.

Comment. Section 4075 continues the introductory clause of former Section 1351 without substantive change.

§ 4080. “Association”

4080. “Association” means a nonprofit corporation or unincorporated association created for the purpose of managing a common interest development.

Comment. Section 4080 continues former Section 1351(a) without substantive change.

See also Section 4095 (“common interest development”).

§ 4085. “Board”

4085. “Board” means the board of directors of an association.

Comment. Section 4085 is new. It is added for drafting convenience.

See also Section 4080 (“association”).

§ 4090. “Common area”

4090. (a) “Common area” means the entire common interest development except the separate interests therein.

(b) In a development in which the entire development is comprised of separate interests, common area may consist of mutual or reciprocal easement rights appurtenant to the separate interests.

Comment. Section 4090 continues former Section 1351(b) without substantive change, except that language providing that “[t]he estate in the common area may be a fee, a life estate, an estate for years, or any combination of the foregoing” is continued in Section ____.

See also Sections 4095 (“common interest development”), 4175 (“separate interest”).

☞ Staff Note. The language providing that “[t]he estate in the common area may be a fee, a life estate, an estate for years, or any combination of the foregoing” is substantive and is not required as part of the definition of the term. It will be located with other provisions that relate to the form of title in a CID. See, e.g., Civ. Code § 1362.

§ 4095. “Common interest development”

4095. (a) “Common Interest development” means a real property development in which a separate interest is coupled with either of the following:
1. An undivided interest in all or part of the common area.
2. Membership in an association that owns all or part of the common area.
(b) In a development where there is no common area other than that established by mutual or reciprocal easement rights appurtenant to the separate interests, “common interest development” means a development in which a separate interest is coupled with membership in an association with the power to enforce an obligation of an owner of a separate interest with respect to the beneficial use and enjoyment of common area by means of an assessment that may become a lien upon the separate interest.
(c) “Common interest development” includes all of the following types of developments:
1. A community apartment project.
2. A condominium project.
3. A planned development.
4. A stock cooperative.

Comment. Section 4095 restates the definition of “common interest development” to improve its clarity, without substantive change. See former Sections 1351(c), (d), (f), (k), (m); 1352. See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4090 (“common area”), 4115 (“condominium project”), 4165 (“planned development”), 4175 (“separate interest”), 4180 (“stock cooperative”).

§ 4100. “Community apartment project”

4100. “Community apartment project” means a real property development in which a right of exclusive occupancy of a specified part of the development is coupled with an undivided interest in the development as a whole.

Comment. Section 4100 continues former Section 1351(d) without substantive change.

§ 4105. “Condominium”

4105. “Condominium” means a separate interest in a condominium project, coupled with an undivided interest in all or part of the common area of the condominium project.

Comment. Section 4105 restates the definition of “condominium” in former Section 1351(f), without substantive change. See also Sections 4090 (“common area”), 4115 (“condominium project”), 4175 (“separate interest”).

§ 4110. “Condominium plan”

4110. “Condominium plan” means a plan of the type described in Section 6075.

Comment. Section 4110 is new. It is added for drafting convenience.
§ 4115. “Condominium project”

4115. (a) “Condominium project” means a real property development in which separate ownership of a specified part of the development is coupled with an undivided interest in all or part of the common area.

(b) The undivided interest in the common area and the separate interest may be a specified three-dimensional space filled with air, earth, or water, or any combination thereof, and need not be physically attached to land except by easements for access and, if necessary, support.

(c) The boundaries of the undivided interest in the common area shall be described on a recorded final map, parcel map, or condominium plan.

(d) The boundaries of a separate interest shall be described on a recorded final map, parcel map, or condominium plan. A description of a separate interest may refer to (1) boundaries described in the recorded final map, parcel map, or condominium plan, (2) physical boundaries, either in existence, or to be constructed, such as walls, floors, and ceilings of a structure or any portion thereof, (3) an entire structure containing one or more separate interests, or (4) any combination thereof.

(d) An individual condominium within a condominium project may include, in addition, a separate interest in other portions of the real property.

Comment. Section 4115 restates former Section 1351(f), without substantive change, except that the definition of “condominium” has been relocated to Section 4105. See also Sections 4090 (“common area”), 4105 (“condominium”), 4110 (“condominium plan”), 4175 (“separate interest”).

☞ Staff Notes. (1) Proposed Section 4115 restates existing Section 1351(f) in order to parallel the language and construction used in proposed Sections 4100 (“community apartment project”), 4165 (“planned development”), and 4180 (“stock cooperative”). The section also eliminates duplicative language and makes fuller use of defined terms. These changes are intended to improve clarity and are not intended to affect the substance of the existing definition of “condominium project.” The Commission requests public input on whether any of the drafting changes would have a substantive effect.

(2) The content of subdivision (d) has been left unchanged because its purpose is unclear. Does the provision merely reflect the fact that a separate interest may include noncontiguous parcels of land (e.g., a residential unit and a boat slip)? If so, is it necessary? Does its presence in this section imply that a separate interest in one of the other types of CIDs must be a single contiguous parcel?

§ 4120. “Declarant”

4120. “Declarant” means the person or group of persons designated in the declaration as declarant, or if no declarant is designated, the person or group of persons who sign the original declaration or who succeed to special rights, preferences, or privileges designated in the declaration as belonging to the person who signed the original declaration.

Comment. Section 4120 continues former Section 1351(g) without substantive change. See also Section 4125 (“declaration”), 4160 (“person”).
§ 4125. “Declaration”

4125. “Declaration” means the document, however denominated, that contains information that is substantially equivalent to the information required by Section 6025.

Comment. Section 4125 continues former Section 1351(h) without substantive change except that exact equivalence with the requirements of Section 6025 is not required. A declaration recorded prior to January 1, 1986 may not contain all of the information required by Section 6025.

Staff Note. The staff invites comment on whether the proposed change to Section 1351(h) would cause any problems.

§ 4130. “Director”

4130. “Director” means a natural person elected, designated, or selected to serve on the board.

Comment. Section 4130 is new. It is added for drafting convenience. See Corp. Code §§ 7220, 7224-7225, 7520-7527 (election or selection of director). See also Section 4085 (“board”).

§ 4135. “Exclusive use common area”

4135. (a) “Exclusive use common area” means a part of the common area designated by the declaration to be used exclusively by one or more, but fewer than all, of the members. The right of exclusive use is appurtenant to the separate interests of those members.

(b) Unless the declaration otherwise provides, shutters, awnings, window boxes, doorsteps, stoops, porches, balconies, patios, exterior doors, doorframes, and hardware incident thereto, screens and windows or other fixtures designed to serve a single separate interest, but located outside the boundaries of the separate interest, are exclusive use common areas allocated exclusively to that separate interest.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of the declaration, internal and external wiring designed to serve a single separate interest, but located outside the boundaries of the separate interest, are exclusive use common areas allocated exclusively to that separate interest.

Comment. Section 4135 restates former Section 1351(i) without substantive change, except that the reference in subdivision (c) to “telephone” wiring is generalized. See also Sections 4090 (“common area”), 4125 (“declaration”), 4150 (“member”), 4175 (“separate interest”).

Staff Note. The reference to “telephone” wiring is technologically obsolete. It has been generalized so that it would include other types of wiring (e.g., Internet connection wiring, television cable, etc.). Would that change create any problems? Note that this provision does not authorize the installation of such wiring, it merely classifies the wiring as exclusive use common area.
§ 4140. “Governing documents”

4140. “Governing documents” means the declaration, bylaws, articles of incorporation or association, and any other document that governs the operation of the common interest development or its association.

Comment. Section 4140 continues former Section 1351(j) without substantive change. See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4095 (“common interest development”), 4125 (“declaration”).

§ 4145. “Managing agent”

4145. (a) “Managing agent” means a person who, for compensation or in expectation of compensation, exercises control over the assets of a common interest development.

(b) “Managing agent” does not include either of the following:

(1) A full-time employee of the association.

(2) A regulated financial institution operating within the normal course of its regulated business practice.

Comment. Section 4145 generalizes former Section 1363.1(b). See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4095 (“common interest development”), 4160 (“person”).

§ 4150. “Member”

4150. “Member” means an owner of a separate interest in a common interest development.

Comment. Section 4150 is new. It is added for drafting convenience. See also Section 4095 (“common interest development”), 4175 (“separate interest”).

§ 4155. “Operating rule”

4155. “Operating rule” means a regulation adopted by the board that applies generally to the management and operation of the common interest development or the conduct of the business and affairs of the association.

Comment. Section 4155 generalizes former Section 1357.100(a) without substantive change. See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4085 (“board”), 4095 (“common interest development”).

§ 4160. “Person”

4160. “Person” means an individual, corporation, government or governmental subdivision or agency, business trust, estate, trust, partnership, limited liability company, association, or other entity.

Comment. Section 4160 is new. It is added for drafting convenience.

§ 4165. “Planned development”

4165. “Planned development” means a real property development of any of the following types:
(a) A development, other than a condominium project, in which separate ownership of a specified part of the development is coupled with an undivided interest in the common area.

(b) A development in which separate ownership of a specified part of the development is coupled with: (1) membership in an association that owns the common area, and (2) an appurtenant right to the beneficial use and enjoyment of the common area.

(c) If the common area consists entirely of mutual or reciprocal easement rights appurtenant to the separate interests, a development in which separate ownership of a specified part of the development is coupled with membership in an association that has the power to enforce an obligation of an owner of a separate interest with respect to the beneficial use and enjoyment of the common area by means of an assessment that may become a lien upon the separate interests in accordance with [Section 1367 or 1367.1].

Comment. Section 4165 continues former Section 1351(k) without substantive change. Subdivision (b) incorporates a related provision from former Section 1351(b). See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4090 (“common area”), 4115 (“condominium project”), 4175 (“separate interest”).

§ 4170. “Rule change”

4170. “Rule change” means the adoption, amendment, or repeal of an operating rule by the board.

Comment. Section 4170 generalizes former Section 1357.100(b). See also Sections 4085 (“board”), 4155 (“operating rule”).

§ 4175. “Separate interest”

4175. (a) In a community apartment project or stock cooperative, “separate interest” means the exclusive right to occupy an apartment or unit.

(b) In a condominium project or planned development, “separate interest” means a separately owned lot, parcel, area, space, or unit.

(c) Unless the declaration or a condominium plan otherwise provides, if walls, floors, or ceilings are designated as boundaries of a separate interest, the interior surfaces of the perimeter walls, floors, ceilings, windows, doors, and outlets located within the separate interest are part of the separate interest and any other portions of the walls, floors, or ceilings are part of the common area.

Comment. Section 4175 restates former Section 1351(l) without substantive change, except that language providing that “[the] estate in a separate interest may be a fee, a life estate, an estate for years, or any combination of the foregoing” is continued in Section ____.

See also Sections 4090 (“common area”), 4110 (“condominium plan”), 4115 (“condominium project”), 4125 (“declaration”), 4165 (“planned development”), 4180 (“stock cooperative”).

☞ Staff Note. Existing language providing that “[the] estate in a separate interest may be a fee, a life estate, an estate for years, or any combination of the foregoing” is substantive and is not required as part of the definition of the term. It will be located with other provisions that relate to the form of title in a CID. See, e.g., Civ. Code § 1362.
§ 4180. “Stock cooperative”

4180. (a) “Stock cooperative” means a real property development in which a right of exclusive occupancy of a specified part of the development is coupled with an ownership interest in a corporation that is formed or availed of primarily for the purpose of holding title to the development as a whole.

(b) An owner’s interest in the corporation, whether evidenced by a share of stock, a certificate of membership, or otherwise, shall be deemed to be an interest in a common interest development and a real estate development for purposes of subdivision (f) of Section 25100 of the Corporations Code.

(c) It is not necessary that all shareholders of the corporation receive a right of exclusive occupancy of a specified part of the development.

(d) A “stock cooperative” includes a limited equity housing cooperative that meets the criteria of Section 33007.5 of the Health and Safety Code.

Comment. Section 4180 continues former Section 1351(m) without substantive change, except that language providing that the corporation’s ownership of the development may be “either in fee simple or for a term of years” is continued in Section_____.

See also Section 4095 (“common interest development”)

Staff Note. Existing language providing that the corporation’s ownership of the development may be “either in fee simple or for a term of years” is substantive and is not required as part of the definition of the term. It will be located with other provisions that relate to the form of title in a CID. See, e.g., Civ. Code § 1362.

CHAPTER 2. MEMBER RIGHTS AND DUTIES

Article 1. Bill of Rights [Reserved]

Article 2. Limitation of Association Authority to Regulate Property Use

§ 4300. Application of article

4300. This article includes provisions that limit the authority of an association to regulate the use of a member’s separate interest. Nothing in this article is intended to affect the application of any other provision that limits the authority of an association to regulate the use of a member’s separate interest, including, but not limited to, the following provisions:

(a) Sections 712 and 713, relating to the display of signs.

(b) Sections 714 and 714.1, relating to solar energy systems.

(c) Section 714.5, relating to structures that are constructed offsite and moved to the property in sections or modules.

(d) Sections 782, 782.5, and 6150 of this code and Section 12956.1 of the Government Code, relating to racial restrictions.

(e) Section 12927 of the Government Code, relating to the modification of property to accommodate a disability.
(f) Section 1597.40 of the Health and Safety Code, relating to the operation of a family day care home.

Comment. Section 4300 is new. It provides a non-exclusive list of provisions outside of this title that limit the authority of an association to regulate separate interest property use.

Staff Note. The Commission requests comment on whether there are any other provisions that should be added to the nonexclusive list of cross-references provided in Section 4300.

Note that existing Section 1360 would not be continued in the proposed law. The section provides rules for a modification that is necessary to accommodate a disability. It is limited by its own terms to a separate interest that is wholly contained within a building (e.g., a condominium unit).

The issue of accommodation of a disability is addressed more comprehensively in Government Code Section 12927. Proposed Section 4300(e) acknowledges the application of that section to a CID. See also [Section 1378] (association decision on modification of separate interest must comply with Fair Employment and Housing Act). The Commission requests input on whether the omission of existing Section 1360 would cause any problems.

§ 4305. Noncommercial display

4305. (a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, the governing documents of an association may not prohibit the display of the flag of the United States or any other noncommercial sign, poster, flag, or banner within a member’s separate interest or exclusive use common area.

(b) Notwithstanding Section 434.4 of the Government Code, an association may prohibit the display of the flag of the United States or any other noncommercial sign, poster, flag, or banner within a member’s separate interest or exclusive use common area if any of the following conditions is satisfied:

(1) The display endangers public health or safety.

(2) The display violates a local, state, or federal statute or regulation.

(3) The display includes the painting of architectural surfaces, or includes lights, roofing, siding, paving materials, plants, or balloons, or any other building, landscaping, or architectural materials.

(4) The display is more than 9 square feet in size, or if the display is a flag, is more than 15 square feet in size.

(c) In an action under this section to challenge a prohibition on the display of the flag of the United States, the prevailing party shall be awarded reasonable attorney’s fees and costs.

Comment. Section 4305 continues former Sections 1355.5 and 1353.6 without substantive change, except that subdivisions (b)(2) and (b)(4) now apply to a flag of the United States.

§ 4310. Pets

4310. (a) The governing documents of an association may not prohibit a member from keeping at least one pet within the member’s separate interest or exclusive use common area, subject to reasonable rules and regulations of the association. This section does not affect any other provision of law governing the right of a member to keep a pet.
(b) For purposes of this section, “pet” means any domesticated bird, cat, dog, aquatic animal kept within an aquarium, or other animal as agreed to between the association and the homeowner.

(c) If the governing documents are amended to restrict the right to keep a pet in the common interest development, the new restriction shall not apply to an existing pet so long as the pet is kept in compliance with the governing documents as they existed before the addition of the new restriction.

(d) This section only applies to governing document that are created or amended on or after January 1, 2001.

Comment. Subdivisions (a)-(b) of Section 4310 continue former Section 1360.5(a)-(b) without substantive change.

Subdivision (c) continues the substance of former Section 1360.5(c) except that it is expanded to apply to any new restriction on pet ownership and not just a restriction on the number of pets that can be kept.

§ 4315. Roofing materials

4315. (a) An association may not require that a homeowner install or repair a roof in a manner that is in violation of Section 13132.7 of the Health and Safety Code.

(b) The governing documents of a common interest development located within a very high fire severity zone, as designated by the Director of Forestry and Fire Protection pursuant to Article 9 (commencing with Section 4201) of Chapter 1 of Part 2 of Division 4 of the Public Resources Code or by a local agency pursuant to Chapter 6.8 (commencing with Section 51175) of Part 1 of Division 1 of Title 5 of the Government Code, shall allow for at least one type of fire retardant roof covering material that meets the requirements of Section 13132.7 of the Health and Safety Code.

Comment. Section 4315 continues former Section 1353.7 without substantive change. See also [Section 1378(a)(3)] (Notwithstanding a contrary provision of the governing documents, a decision on a proposed change may not violate any governing provision of law, including, but not limited to, the Fair Employment and Housing Act (Part 2.8 (commencing with Section 12900) of Division 3 of Title 2 of the Government Code), or a building code or other applicable law governing land use or public safety.”).

Staff Note. The Comment to proposed Section 4315 quotes Section 1378(a)(3). The quoted text reflects the 2005 amendment of that section. See 2005 Cal. Stat. ch. 37, § 4.

§ 4320. Television antenna or satellite dish

4320. (a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, a provision of the governing documents is void to the extent that it would prohibit or restrict the use or installation of an antenna.

(b) The following restrictions on the use or installation of an antenna are not void pursuant to this section:

(1) A restriction or prohibition that is consistent with a provision of law that imposes the same restriction or prohibition.
(2) A requirement that the antenna not be visible from a street or from the common area.

(3) A restriction that does not significantly increase the cost of the antenna, including all related equipment, or significantly decrease its efficiency or performance.

(4) A requirement that the association approve the installation before installation takes place.

(5) A requirement that an association approve the installation of an antenna on the separate interest of a member other than the member seeking to install the antenna.

(6) A provision for the maintenance, repair, or replacement of roofs or other building components.

(7) A requirement that the installer indemnify or reimburse the association or a member for loss or damage caused by the installation, maintenance, or use of the antenna.

(c) Whenever approval is required for the installation or use of an antenna, the application for approval shall be processed by the appropriate approving entity for the common interest development in the same manner as an application for approval of an architectural modification to the property, and the issuance of a decision on the application shall not be willfully delayed.

(d) In any action to enforce compliance with this section, the prevailing party shall be awarded reasonable attorney’s fees.

(e) For the purposes of this section “antenna” means a video or television antenna, including a satellite dish, of less than 36 inches in diameter or diagonal measurement.

Comment. Section 4320 restates the substance of former Section 1376.

─ Staff Notes. (1) Proposed Section 4320 would significantly revise existing Section 1376, to improve its clarity. The Commission requests comment on whether any of the revisions would make a substantive change in the law.

(2) Proposed subdivision (a) replaces the phrase “a covenant, condition, or restriction contained in a deed, contract, security instrument, or other instrument affecting the transfer or sale of, or an interest in, a common interest development” with the more general term “a provision of the governing documents.” The Commission requests comment on whether that simplification in phrasing would cause a substantive change in the law.

(3) Proposed subdivision (b)(5) seems to be subsumed within subdivision (b)(4). The Commission requests comment on whether subdivision (b)(5) can be deleted without substantive effect?

(4) Proposed subdivision (b)(6) seems to be subsumed within subdivision (b)(7). The Commission requests comment on whether subdivision (b)(6) can be deleted without substantive effect?

(5) Under existing law, the right to install and use an antenna is limited to “video or television.” A federal regulation preempting CC&Rs that restrict the installation of antennas seems to have a broader scope. See 47 C.F.R. § 1.4000 (protecting, among other things the use of an antenna to receive “direct broadcast satellite service, including direct-to-home satellite service,” which might include satellite radio reception). The Commission requests comment on whether the right to install an antenna or dish should be generalized to include any device within the specified size limitations.
Article 3. Inspection of Records

☞ Staff Note. The provisions of this article address a member’s right to inspect an association record. They do not establish the association’s duty to maintain records. That issue will be addressed later in the proposed law, in connection with board duties generally.

§ 4500. Scope of inspection right

4500. (a) Except as otherwise provided in this article, a member may inspect the following association records:

(1) The governing documents.
(2) The membership list, including member names, property addresses, mailing addresses, and electronic mail addresses.
(3) The agenda and minutes of a meeting of the members, the board, or any committee appointed by the board.
(4) Any notice, report, or other document that is required to be provided to the members as a general notice (Section 4045).
(5) Any balance sheet, income and expense statement, budget comparison, or general ledger. A “general ledger” is a report that shows all transactions that occurred in an association account over a specified period of time.
(6) Any invoice, receipt, cancelled check, credit card statement, statement for services rendered, or reimbursement request.
(7) Any statement of deposits to and withdrawals from the reserve account, or showing the current balance of the reserve account.
(8) Any executed contract.
(9) Written board approval of a vendor or contractor proposal or invoice.
(10) Any state or federal tax return.
(11) Any record of the compensation provided to an employee or contractor. The compensation information shall be indicated by job classification or title and may not refer to an individual employee or contractor by name or by other identifying information. Except as provided in this subdivision, personnel records are not subject to inspection.
(12) Information required by the member to comply with [Section 1368].

(b) Notwithstanding subdivision (a), a member may not inspect the following association records:

(1) Any record that was prepared three or more fiscal years prior to the fiscal year in which the inspection request is delivered. This paragraph does not apply to the minutes of a board, committee, or member meeting. Minutes must be made available for inspection permanently.
(2) Any record that is protected from disclosure by an evidentiary privilege. Examples include documents subject to the attorney-client privilege or relating to litigation in which the association is or may become involved.
(3) The agenda or minutes of an executive session meeting held by the board or by a committee appointed by the board pursuant to [Section 1363.05].
(4) Any record of a disciplinary action, collection activity, or a payment plan for overdue assessments, that involves a person other than the person making the request.

(5) Any interior architectural plan of a separate interest.

(6) Any plan showing any security features of a separate interest.

(7) Any record of a good or service provided to a member for a fee.

(c) Any inspection under this article may be made in person or by an agent or attorney and the right of inspection includes the right to copy and make extracts.

Comment. Subdivisions (a)-(b) of Section 4500 continue the substance of former Section 1356.2(a)-(b), except for the following changes:

Subdivision (a)(1) is new.

Subdivision (a)(2) includes an electronic mail address in the information that must be provided as part of the membership list. The substantive limitations on use of a membership list are not included in this section. They are continued in Sections 4515 and 4525.

Subdivision (a)(3) generalizes the requirements for inspection of documents prepared pursuant to former Section 1365. Any document that is delivered to the membership generally is subject to inspection.

Subdivision (a)(5) does not limit the inspection of financial statements to those that are “interim,” “unaudited,” and “periodic or as compiled.” All financial statements of the types described are subject to inspection.

Subdivision (a)(8) does not limit the inspection of executed contracts to those that are not privileged. A general exemption for privileged documents is provided in subdivision (b)(2).

Subdivision (a)(11) continues the substance of former Section 1365.2(d)(1)(E)(v) & (d)(2).

Subdivision (b)(2) continues the substance of former Section 1365.2(d)(1)(C).

Subdivision (b)(3) continues the substance of former Section 1365.2(d)(1)(E)(iv).

Subdivision (b)(4) continues the substance of former Section 1365.2(d)(1)(E)(ii).

Subdivision (b)(5)-(6) continues the substance of former Section 1365.2(d)(1)(E)(vi).

Subdivision (b)(7) continues the substance of former Section 1365.2(d)(1)(E)(i).

Subdivision (c) is drawn from Corporations Code Section 8311.

☞ Staff Notes. Proposed Section 4500 restates portions of pending Section 1365.2 that define the scope of the record inspection right. The Commission requests comment on the following issues relating to this section:

(1) Pending Section 1365.2 (a)(1)(C) provides for the inspection of certain financial documents provided that they are “interim,” “unaudited,” and “periodic or as compiled.” The proposed section does not continue that limitation. A final document or one that has been audited would still be relevant to a member interested in tracking association finances. Is there a good policy reason to restore the omitted limitation?

(2) The proposed law continues pending Section 1365.2(a)(1)(E), which provides for inspection of a: “Written board approval of a vendor or contractor proposal or invoice.” The Commission is unsure of the purpose of that provision. It would seem that most contract approval decisions would be memorialized in meeting minutes rather than in a separate written document. What purpose is served by that provision?

(3) The concept of “enhanced association records” established in pending Section 1365.2(a)(2) is not continued. The only application of that definition occurs in pending Section 1365.2(c)(5), which authorizes billing for time spent redacting personal information from “enhanced association records.” The proposed law broadens that provision. Any redaction that is required, in any type of document, imposes costs and should be compensated.

(4) Pending Section 1365.2(a)(1)(D) and (d)(1)(E)(iv) provide that a contract is not subject to inspection if it is privileged. In what situation would a contract be privileged? Pending Section 1365.2(d)(1)(E)(iv) purports to provide that “privileged contracts shall not include contracts for maintenance, management, or legal services.” Is this intended as an override of the otherwise applicable law governing evidentiary privileges? Is such an override proper? Given the breadth of that override, what sorts of contracts might remain privileged?

§ 4505. Inspection procedure

4505. (a) A member may deliver to the board (Section 4035) a written request to inspect an association record. The request shall identify the record to be inspected and shall state a purpose for the inspection that is reasonably related to the member’s interest as a member. The request may designate an agent to inspect the record on the member’s behalf.

(b) Except as provided in Sections 4510, 4515 and 4525, the association shall make the requested record available for inspection according to the following
deadlines:

(1) For a record prepared in the current fiscal year, within 10 business days after the request is delivered.

(2) For a record prepared in a prior fiscal year, within 30 calendar days after the request is delivered.

(3) For a record that has not yet been prepared, within 10 business days after the request is delivered or the record is prepared, whichever is later.

(4) For the membership list, within five business days.

(c) If the association has a business office in the common interest development, the requested record shall be made available for inspection in that office. If the association does not have a business office in the common interest development, the record shall be made available for inspection at a location agreed to by the association and the member who submitted the request.

(d) At the member’s request, a copy of a specifically identified record shall be delivered to the member by individual delivery (Section 4040). If the record exists in electronic form, the association shall comply with a member request that the record be provided in electronic form. Notwithstanding the other provisions of this subdivision, the association may not provide a record in electronic form if the form of the record prevents a necessary redaction.

Comment. Subdivision (a) of Section 4505 establishes a procedure to request the inspection of association records.

Subdivision (b) continues part of the substance of former Section 1365.2(j). Special deadlines for inspection of specific types of records have been subsumed within the general deadlines.

Subdivisions (c) and (d) continue the substance of former Section 1365.2(c), (h).

Staff Note. Pending Section 1365.2(c) does not specify where records are to be inspected if the association has no business office in the development and the association and requesting member cannot agree on a location. The only option offered is for the member to receive mailed copies of specifically identified records. That may not be feasible when a member is reviewing the records generally and does not wish to have copies of all of the records. The Commission invites comment on whether some other alternative should be offered.

§ 4510. Redaction

4510. (a) Before making a record available for inspection, the association shall redact all of the following information from the record:
(1) Any financial account number.
(2) Any password or personal identification number.
(3) Any social security number or taxpayer identification number.
(4) Any driver’s license number.
(5) Any other information that is reasonably likely to lead to unauthorized use of a person’s identity or financial resources, or to other fraud.

(b) Before providing a membership list, the association shall redact the name and address of any person who has elected to have that information redacted from the membership list pursuant to Section 4515.

(c) If the member requests, the association shall provide a written statement explaining the legal justification for any redaction made.

Comment. Section 4510 restates former Section 1365.2(d)(2) except that the duty to redact certain information has been made mandatory.

☞ Staff Note. Under pending Section 1365.2(d)(2), redaction of personal information is optional. It is not clear why an association board member should have discretion in this regard. Proposed Section 4510 would make redaction mandatory. The Commission invites comment on this proposed change.

§ 4515. Optional exclusion from membership list

4515. (a) A member may elect, in writing, to have the member’s name and address redacted from the membership list.

(b) A member who requests the membership list may also request that the association deliver material to any member whose information will be redacted from the membership list. The association shall deliver the material to those members by individual delivery (Section 4040), within 10 business days after delivery of the request.

Comment. Section 4515 restates former Section 1356.2(a)(1)(I)(iii).

§ 4520. Fees

4520. (a) The association may charge a fee to recover the direct and actual cost to copy or deliver a record. The association shall inform the member of the fee amount, and the member shall agree to pay the fee, before a copy is made or a record delivered.

(b) The association may charge a fee of up to ten dollars ($10) per hour, not to exceed two hundred dollars ($200) per written request, for the time actually and reasonably spent to retrieve and redact a record. The association shall inform the member of the estimated fee amount, and the member shall agree to pay the fee, before the record is retrieved and redacted.

Comment. Section 4520 continues former Section 1356.2(c)(4)-(5) without substantive change, except that the authority to charge a fee for redaction has been generalized.

§ 4525. Denial of request

4525. (a) A member may only inspect and use an association record for a purpose that is reasonably related to the requesting member’s interest as a member. A member may not inspect or use an association record for a commercial purpose.

(b) The association may deny a record inspection request if it believes, in good faith and with a substantial basis, that the record will be used for an impermissible purpose or that disclosure of the record would violate a member’s constitutional rights.

Comment. Subdivision (a) of Section 4525 continues the substance of former Section 1365.2(e). See also Corp. Code § 8338 (use of membership list).

Subdivision (b) generalizes Corporations Code Sections 8331(a) and 8332 so that they apply to any record and not just the association’s membership list.

§ 4530. Denial process

4530. (a) An association that denies a request for records under this article shall provide the requesting member a notice of denial, by individual delivery (Section 4040), within 10 business days after delivery of the inspection request.

(b) The notice of denial shall include all of the following information:

(1) An explanation of the basis for the denial decision.

(2) An offer to attempt to resolve the matter through the association’s internal dispute resolution procedure provided pursuant to [Article 5 (commencing with Section 133.810) of Chapter 4]. The offer may include an alternative proposal for achieving the member’s purpose.

(3) A description of the procedure provided in subdivision (c) for objection to the denial decision, and the applicable deadline.

(c) A member may deliver to the board (Section 4035) a written objection to the denial decision, within 10 business days after delivery of the notice of denial. Failure to deliver a timely objection nullifies the record inspection request.

(d) If a member delivers a timely objection to a decision to deny a record inspection request, the association shall either comply with the record inspection request or shall petition the superior court for an order setting aside the request.

Comment. Section 4530 is new. See also Corp. Code § 8330(c) (offer of alternative to disclosure of membership list).

§ 4535. Action to set aside request

4535. (a) An association that has complied with Section 4530 may file a petition to set aside a record inspection request. The petition shall be filed within 10 business days after the requesting member delivers a timely objection pursuant to subdivision (c) of Section 4530. Notwithstanding the other provisions of this subdivision, the association may file a petition within 30 days after delivery of the objection if it can show that the delay was caused by excusable neglect.

(b) In an action to set aside a record inspection request, the association bears the burden of proving that it is reasonably likely that disclosure of the requested record would lead to misuse of the record, that disclosure would violate a member’s constitutional rights, or that inspection of the record is not required under this article.
(c) If the court finds that it is reasonably likely that disclosure of the requested record would lead to misuse of the record or would violate a member’s constitutional rights, or that inspection of the record is not required under this article, it may order that the record inspection request be set aside.

(d) The court may order any other relief appropriate to the circumstances, including the following relief:

1. An order requiring that the association distribute material to the membership on behalf of the requesting member, in lieu of disclosing the membership list.

2. The tolling of any deadline affected by association delay in providing access to a record.

3. The postponement of a scheduled board or member meeting, if association delay in providing access to a record would prejudice the requesting member’s interest in a decision to be made at the meeting.

4. The appointment of an investigator or accountant to inspect or audit association records on behalf of the requesting member. The cost of investigation shall ordinarily be paid by the requesting member, but the court may order that the association pay or share in the cost.

(e) If the court does not set the record inspection request aside, it shall award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees, to the requesting member.

(f) Nothing in this section limits the right of the association to bring an action under Section 4545.

Comment. Subdivision (a) of Section 4535 is comparable to Corporations Code Section 8331(b)-(c).

Subdivision (b) continues part of the substance of former Section 1365.2(a)(1)(I)(ii) but generalizes it to apply to all records and not just to a membership list.

Subdivision (c) is comparable to Corporations Code Sections 8331(f)(1) and 8332, except that it applies to all records and not just to a membership list.

Subdivision (d)(1) is comparable to Corporations Code Sections 8331(g) and 8332.

Subdivision (d)(2) is new. It authorizes the court to toll a procedural deadline if the association’s delay in providing access to a record affected the member’s ability to comply with the deadline. For example, Section 6120 provides for a member meeting to reverse a rule change, within 30 calendar days after notice of the rule change. The signatures of five percent or more of the members are required to call the meeting. A member who requests access to the membership list in order to solicit signatures might be unable to meet the deadline due to association delay in providing the list. Subdivision (c)(2) would authorize the court to toll that time period to prevent injustice. See also subdivision (c)(3); Corp. Code § 8335 (postponement of meeting).

Subdivision (d)(3) is comparable to Corporations Code Section 8335, except that it applies to all records and not just to a membership list.

Subdivision (d)(4) is comparable to Corporations Code Section 8336.

Subdivision (e) is comparable to Corporations Code Section 8331(h).

Subdivision (f) is comparable to Corporations Code Section 8331(j).

§ 4540. Action to compel compliance

4540. (a) If an association has not complied with a document inspection request within the time provided, and that failure is not excused under subdivision (c), the requesting member may file an action in small claims court or in the superior court to compel compliance.

(b) If the court finds that the failure to comply with the record inspection request is not excused, it shall order compliance. The court may order any other relief appropriate to the circumstances, including the following relief:
   (1) Imposition of a civil penalty of up to $500 against the association.
   (2) The tolling of any deadline affected by association delay in providing access to a record.
   (3) The postponement of a scheduled board or member meeting, if association delay in providing access to a record would prejudice the requesting member’s interest in a decision to be made at the meeting.
   (4) The appointment of an investigator or accountant to inspect or audit association records on behalf of the requesting member. The cost of investigation shall ordinarily be borne by the requesting member, but the court may order that the association bear or share the cost.

(c) Failure to comply with a record inspection request is excused if one of the following conditions is satisfied:
   (1) The request was nullified as a result of the requesting member’s failure to deliver a timely objection to the board.
   (2) An action is pending under Section 4535.
   (3) The record inspection request was set aside by a court pursuant to Section 4535.
   (4) The requested record is not subject to disclosure under this article.

(d) If the court orders compliance with the record inspection request, it shall award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees, to the requesting member. If the court does not order compliance with the record inspection request and it finds that the claim for enforcement was frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation, it may award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees, to the association.

Comment. Section 4540 is comparable to former Section 1365.2(f) and Corporations Code Sections 8336 (action to enforce inspection right) and 8337 (costs and expenses).
Subdivision (b)(2) is new. It authorizes the court to toll a procedural deadline if the association’s delay in providing access to a record affected the member’s ability to comply with the deadline. For example, Section 6120 provides for a member meeting to reverse a rule change, within 30 calendar days after notice of the rule change. The signatures of five percent or more of the members are required to call the meeting. A member who requests access to the membership list in order to solicit signatures might be unable to meet the deadline due to association delay in providing the list. Subdivision (b)(2) would authorize the court to toll that time period to prevent injustice. See also subdivision (b)(3); Corp. Code § 8335 (postponement of meeting).
Subdivision (b)(3) is comparable to Corporations Code Section 8335, except that it applies to all records and not just to a membership list.
Subdivision (b)(4) is comparable to Corporations Code Section 8336.
Subdivision (d) continues part of the substance of former Section 1365.2(f).

Staff Note. Pending Section 1365.2(f) provides for an award of costs and expenses to an association in an action to enforce the record inspection right, if the court finds that the requesting member’s action is “frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation.” That seems to be aimed at limiting an award of association fees to a case involving a frivolous claim. However, the language may be too broad for that purpose. It allows for an award of fees where the action was “without foundation.” The meaning of that phrase is unclear, but it could be read to encompass any case in which the court finds against the plaintiff. The Commission requests comment on whether it might be better to use language drawn from Code of Civil Procedure Section 1038, which governs an award of fees in a frivolous case brought under the Tort Claims Act. For example:
“The court may award reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees, to the association if it finds that the action was not brought in good faith and with reasonable cause.”

§ 4545. Action to enjoin improper use of records

4545. An association may bring an action for injunctive relief and actual damages against any person who misuses association records. In addition, a court in its discretion may award exemplary damages for a fraudulent or malicious misuse of association records. If the association prevails in an action brought under this section, the court shall award the association reasonable costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney’s fees.

Comment. Section 4545 is comparable to Corporations Code Section 8338(b)-(d).

§ 4550. Limited liability

4550. An association, or an officer, director, employee, agent, or volunteer of an association, is not liable for damages that result from a failure to withhold or redact information pursuant to this article, unless the failure to withhold or redact the information was intentional, willful, or negligent.

Comment. Section 4550 restates the substance of former Section 1356.2(d)(3).

☞ Staff Note. Former Section 1356.2(d)(3) immunizes the association and its officers and agents from some liability for damages resulting from a breach of the duty to withhold or redact certain personal information. However, that provision seems to allow for liability where the breach was merely negligent. Should the liability limitation provision be strengthened or otherwise modified, especially if the duty to redact is made mandatory? See proposed Section 4510 and note. For example, broader protection could be given to individuals by eliminating mere negligence as a basis for personal liability.

§ 4555. Inspection by director

4555. A director shall have the absolute right at any reasonable time to inspect all books, records, and documents of every kind and to inspect the common area.

Comment. Section 4555 is comparable to Corporations Code Section 8334.

§ 4560. Application of article

4560. (a) For the purposes of this article, a community service organization or similar entity, as defined in [paragraph (3) of subdivision (c) of Section 1368], is deemed to be an association, and a member of the community service organization or similar entity is deemed to be a member of an association.

(b) This article does not apply to common interest development in which separate interests are being offered for sale by a subdivider under the authority of a public report issued by the Department of Real Estate, so long as the subdivider or all subdividers offering those separate interests for sale, or any employees of those subdivisions or any other person who receives direct or indirect compensation from any of those subdividers, comprise a majority of the members of the board of directors of the association. Notwithstanding the foregoing this article shall apply to a common interest development no later than 10 years after the close of escrow for the first sale of a separate interest to a member of the general public pursuant to the public report issued for the first phase of the development.

(c) Article 3 (commencing with Section 8330) of Chapter 13 of Part 3 of Division 2 of the Corporations Code does not apply to a common interest development.

Comment. Subdivision (a) of Section 4560 continues the substance of former Section 1365.2(g).

Subdivision (b) continues the substance of former Section 1365.2(n).

Subdivision (c) continues former Section 1356.2(m) without substantive change, except that Corporations Code Section 8332, 8334-8338 are also superseded.

☞ Staff Note. Subdivision (b) exempts a CID from the application of this article if it is still in the period of developer control. Presumably, such a development would be subject to the record inspection provisions of the Corporations Code. It seems appropriate that some record inspection right be preserved. A member’s interest in the proper management of a CID is not reduced simply because the association is within the control of the developer. The Commission requests comment on whether this exemption serves a useful purpose and should be continued.

Article 4. Actions Requiring Member Approval

Article 5. Member Duties

CHAPTER 3. COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION [RESERVED]

CHAPTER 4. FINANCES AND MAINTENANCE [RESERVED]

CHAPTER 5. GOVERNING DOCUMENTS

§ 6000. Creation of common interest development

6000. For the purposes of this part, a common interest development is created when a separate interest coupled with an interest in the common area or membership in the association is, or has been, conveyed, provided that all of the following are recorded:

(a) A declaration.

(b) A condominium plan, if any exists.
(c) A final map or parcel map, if Division 2 (commencing with Section 66410) of Title 7 of the Government Code requires the recording of either a final map or parcel map for the common interest development.

Comment. Section 6000 continues part of the substance of former Section 1352. It governs the application of this part and is not intended to govern the date of creation of a common interest development for other purposes. See City of West Hollywood v. Beverly Towers, Inc. 52 Cal. 3d 1184, 278 Cal. Rptr. 375, 805 P.2d 329 (1991) (failure to convey a unit not determinative of whether condominium project exists for purposes of local planning law).

See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4090 (“common area”), 4095 (“common interest development”), 4110 (“condominium plan”), 4125 (“declaration”), 4175 (“separate interest”).

§ 6005. Document authority

6005. (a) The articles of incorporation may not include a provision that is inconsistent with the declaration. To the extent of any inconsistency between the articles of incorporation and the declaration, the declaration controls.

(b) The bylaws may not include a provision that is inconsistent with the declaration or the articles of incorporation. To the extent of any inconsistency between the bylaws and the articles of incorporation or declaration, the articles of incorporation or declaration control.

(c) The operating rules may not include a provision that is inconsistent with the declaration, articles of incorporation, or bylaws. To the extent of any inconsistency between the operating rules and the bylaws, articles of incorporation, or declaration, the bylaws, articles of incorporation, or declaration control.

Comment. Section 6005 is new. Subdivision (b) is consistent with Corporations Code Section 7151(c) providing that the bylaws shall be consistent with the articles of incorporation.

Subdivision (c) is consistent with Section 6100(c) providing that an operating rule may not be inconsistent with the declaration, articles of incorporation, or bylaws of the association.

See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4125 (“declaration”), 4155 (“operating rule”).

Article 2. Declaration

§ 6025. Content of declaration

6025. A declaration, recorded on or after January 1, 1986, shall contain all of the following:

(a) A legal description of the common interest development.

(b) A statement that the common interest development is a community apartment project, condominium project, planned development, stock cooperative, or combination thereof.

(c) The name of the association.

(d) Any restriction on the use or enjoyment of any portion of the common interest development that is intended to be an enforceable equitable servitude.

(e) Any other matter that the declarant or the members consider appropriate.

Comment. Section 6025 continues part of former Sections 1353(a)(1) and (b) without substantive change. The remainder of former Section 1353(a)(1) is continued without substantive change in Section 6030.
See also Sections 4080 ("association"), 4095 ("common interest development"), 4115 ("condominium project"), 4125 ("declaration"), 4150 ("member"), 4165 ("planned development"), 4180 ("stock cooperative").

Staff Note. The defined term “declarant” is substituted for the existing phrase “original signator of the declaration” in proposed 6025(e). The Commission invites comment on whether this would cause any problem.

§ 6030. Disclosure of airport in vicinity
6030. (a) If a common interest development is located within an airport influence area and its declaration is recorded after January 1, 2004, the declaration shall contain the following statement:

“NOTICE OF AIRPORT IN VICINITY

This property is presently located in the vicinity of an airport, within what is known as an airport influence area. For that reason, the property may be subject to some of the annoyances or inconveniences associated with proximity to airport operations (for example: noise, vibration, or odors). Individual sensitivities to those annoyances can vary from person to person. You may wish to consider what airport annoyances, if any, are associated with the property before you complete your purchase and determine whether they are acceptable to you.”

(b) For purposes of this section, an “airport influence area,” also known as an “airport referral area,” is the area in which current or future airport-related noise, overflight, safety, or airspace protection factors may significantly affect land uses or necessitate restrictions on those uses as determined by an airport land use commission.

(c) A statement in a declaration acknowledging that a property is located in an airport influence area is not a title defect, lien, or encumbrance.

Comment. Section 6030 continues part of former Sections 1353(a)(1)-(2), (4) without substantive change. The remainder of former Section 1351(a)(1) is continued without substantive change in Section 6025. See Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010 (disclosure of property within airport influence area); Pub. Util. Code § 21675 (designation of “airport influence area” by county airport land use commission).

See also Sections 4095 (“common interest development”), 4125 (“declaration”).

§ 6035. Disclosure of BCDC jurisdiction
6035. (a) If a common interest development is within the jurisdiction of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, as described in Section 66610 of the Government Code, and its declaration is recorded on or after January 1, 2006, the declaration shall contain the following notice:

“NOTICE OF SAN FRANCISCO BAY CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION JURISDICTION

This property is located within the jurisdiction of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission. Use and development of property within the commission’s jurisdiction may be subject to special regulations, restrictions, and permit requirements. You may wish to investigate and determine whether they are acceptable to you and your intended use of the property before you complete your transaction.”

(b) A statement in a declaration acknowledging that a property is located within the jurisdiction of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission is not a title defect, lien, or encumbrance.

Comment. Section 6035 continues former Section 1353(a)(3)-(4) without substantive change.

See also Section 4095 (“common interest development”), 4125 (“declaration”).

§ 6040. Amendment authorized

6040. (a) A declaration may be amended at any time, notwithstanding any contrary provision of the declaration.

(b) Any provision of a declaration may be amended, unless the declaration expressly prohibits amendment of that provision.

(c) The Legislature finds that there are common interest developments that have been created with deed restrictions that do not provide a means for the property owners to extend the term of the declaration. The Legislature further finds that covenants and restrictions, contained in the declaration, are an appropriate method for protecting the common plan of developments and to provide for a mechanism for financial support for the upkeep of common areas including, but not limited to, roofs, roads, heating systems, and recreational facilities. If declarations terminate prematurely, common interest developments may deteriorate and the housing supply of affordable units could be impacted adversely. The Legislature further finds and declares that it is in the public interest to provide a vehicle for extending the term of the declaration if owners having more than 50 percent of the votes in the association choose to do so.

(d) A declaration may be amended to extend the termination date of the declaration, notwithstanding any contrary provision of the declaration. No single extension of the term of the declaration made pursuant to this subdivision shall exceed the initial term of the declaration or 20 years, whichever is less. However, more than one extension may be made pursuant to this subdivision.

Comment. Subdivisions (a)-(b) of Section 6040 restate the first sentence of former Section 1355(b) without substantive change.

Subdivisions (c)-(d) restate Section 1357 without substantive change except that the procedure for approving an amendment of a declaration to extend its termination date is not continued. An amendment under this subdivision would be approved pursuant to Section 6045.

See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4095 (“common interest development”), 4125
(“declaration”).

☞ Staff Notes. (1) The Commission invites comment on whether the proposed restatement of the first sentence of Section 1355(b) would cause any substantive change in the law.

(2) Existing law acknowledges that a declaration may be drafted so as to limit or prohibit its amendment. That could result in permanent restrictions that become inappropriate over time, due to changed circumstances or the changed desires of the property owners. The common law recognizes a defense to the enforcement of an equitable servitude where “the original purpose for the restrictions has become obsolete and continued enforcement of the restrictions would be oppressive and inequitable.” H. Miller & M. Starr, California Real Estate § 24:20 (3d ed. 2004).

As a matter of policy, should there be a procedure for amendment of a declaration by the members of a homeowner association, even if the declaration prohibits its own amendment?

§ 6045. Approval of amendment

6045. (a) If the governing documents provide a procedure for approval of an amendment of the declaration, an amendment may be approved by that procedure. (b) If the governing documents do not provide a procedure for approval of an amendment of the declaration, an amendment may be approved by a majority of all members (Section 4055).

(c) The board shall provide individual notice (Section 4040) to all members of an amendment approved under this section.

Comment. Section 6045 is comparable to the provisions of former Section 1355 that relate to approval of an amendment of the declaration. See Sections 4040 (individual notice), 4055 (approved by all members).

See also Sections 4085 (“board”), 4125 (“declaration”), 4140 (“governing documents”), 4150 (“member”).

☞ Staff Notes. (1) The Corporations Code provisions governing the amendment of the articles of incorporation and bylaws address the possibility that the governing documents may require the approval of a specific class of voters or of a specified third party in order to amend the governing documents. See, e.g. Corp. Code § 7150(b), (d). Should similar provisions be applied to amendment of the declaration? For example, suppose that the declaration provides that a minority class of voters must approve any action that changes the proportional share of assessments collected from each class. Should the majority class be able to delete that provision from the declaration without the approval of a majority of the other class?

(2) Civil Code Section 1356 authorizes a director or member to petition the superior court for an order lowering the number or percentage of affirmative votes required to approve an amendment of the declaration. A comparable order may be obtained under Corporations Code Section 7515. The staff does not see the benefit in providing two separate and slightly different provisions to achieve the same result. For that reason, Section 1356 is not continued in the proposed law. Instead, the staff intends to restate Section 7515 in the provisions of the proposed law that will govern election procedures. That general provision would apply to any action that requires member approval (as Section 7515 currently does). The Commission invites comment on whether this would create any problems.

§ 6050. Approval of amendment to delete obsolete construction or marketing provision 6050. Notwithstanding Section 6045, the deletion of a provision of the declaration may be approved by the board (Section 4050) and by a majority of a quorum of the members (Section 4060) if all of the following conditions are satisfied:

(a) The provision to be deleted is unequivocally designed and intended, or by its nature can only have been designed or intended, to facilitate the developer in completing the construction or marketing of the development or of a particular phase of the development.

(b) The provision to be deleted authorizes access by the developer over or across the common area for the purposes of (1) completion of construction of the development, and (2) the erection, construction, or maintenance of structures or other facilities designed to facilitate the completion of construction or marketing of separate interests.

(c) The construction or marketing activities governed by the provision to be deleted have been completed or terminated.

Comment. Section 6050 is comparable to former Section 1355.5 but applies only to the amendment of a declaration. The requirement of former Section 1355.5(c), that members be given notice before the board approves the amendment is not continued. As a general rule, member notice is required before board meetings and before a member vote is held. See [§ 1363.05(d)];
Corp. Code § 7511.

See Sections 4050 (approved by the board), 4060 (approved by majority of quorum of all members). See also Sections 4085 (“board”), 4090 (“common area”), 4125 (“declaration”), 4150 (“member”), 4175 (“separate interest”).

☞ Staff Notes. (1) Existing Section 1355.5 provides an optional procedure for deletion of obsolete developer provisions from any type of governing document, including the articles of incorporation and bylaws. However, it doesn’t appear that this section serves a useful purpose when applied to the articles or bylaws. The existing procedures for amendment of those documents is as expeditious or more expeditious than the procedure provided in Section 1355.5.

See Corp. Code §§ 7151 (amendment of bylaws), 7810-7820 (amendment of articles).

(2) Existing Section 1355.5 limits the optional procedure to deletion of provisions that “[provide] for access by the developer over or across the common area for the purposes of (a) completion of construction of the development, and (b) the erection, construction, or maintenance of structures or other facilities designed to facilitate the completion of construction or marketing of separate interests. Does the use of “and” imply that the provision must satisfy both of the enumerated criteria? Should “and” be changed to “or”?

(3) Is it necessary to continue the requirement that the board approve an amendment under this section? It seems unlikely that a board would ever oppose such an amendment if it were approved by the members.

§ 6055. Effective date of amendment

6055. Notwithstanding any contrary provision of the governing documents, an amendment approved pursuant to this article becomes effective once the following actions have been completed:

(a) An officer of the association certifies, in a writing that is signed and acknowledged by the officer, that the amendment was approved pursuant to this article. The certifying officer shall be the officer designated for that purpose by the governing documents, or if no one is designated, the president of the association.

(b) The written certification and the amended text of the declaration are recorded in each county in which a portion of the common interest development is located.

Comment. Subdivisions (a) and (b) of Section 6055 are comparable to the provisions of former Section 1355 that relate to certification and recordation of an amendment of the declaration. See Sections 1180-1207 (acknowledgement of instrument).

See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4095 (“common interest development”), 4125
(“declaration”), 4140 (“governing documents”).
Article 3. Articles of Incorporation

§ 6060. Content of articles

6060. (a) The articles of incorporation of an association that are filed with the Secretary of State on or after January 1, 1995, shall include all of the following:
   1. A statement that the corporation is an association formed to manage a common interest development under the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act.
   2. The address of the business or corporate office of the association, if any.
   3. If the association has no business or corporate office, or if the business or corporate office is not on the site of the common interest development, the nine-digit ZIP Code, front street, and nearest cross street for the physical location of the common interest development.
   4. The name and address of the association’s managing agent.

   (b) The statement of principal business activity contained in the annual statement filed by an incorporated association with the Secretary of State pursuant to Section 1502 of the Corporations Code shall also contain the information specified in subdivision (a).

Comment. Section 6060 restates former Section 1363.5 without substantive change, except that the requirement to state the location of the common interest development is expanded to apply to an association that has no business or corporate office. See Corp. Code §§ 1502 (annual statement), 7130-7135 (content of articles of incorporation), 7810-7820 (amendment of articles of incorporation), 7150-7153 (content and amendment of bylaws).

   See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4095 (“common interest development”), 4145 (“managing agent”).

Article 4. Condominium Plan

§ 6075. Content of condominium plan

6075. A condominium plan shall include all of the following:
   (a) A description or survey map of a condominium project, which shall refer to or show monumentation on the ground.

      1. The record owner of fee title to that property included in the condominium project.

(d) A person who owns only a mineral right, easement, right-of-way, or other nonpossessory interest in the property that is included in the condominium project does not need to sign the condominium plan.

Comment. Section 6075 continues former Section 1351(e) without substantive change, except that last paragraph is not continued. That paragraph is continued without substantive change in Section 4660. See also Sections 4090 (“common area”), 4110 (“condominium plan”), 4115 (“condominium project”), 4160 (“person”), 4175 (“separate interest”), 4180 (“stock cooperative”).

§ 6080. Amendment of condominium plan

6080. A condominium plan may be amended or revoked by a recorded instrument that is acknowledged and signed by all the persons whose signatures are required pursuant to subdivision (c) of Section 6075.

Comment. Section 6080 continues the last paragraph of former Section 1351(e) without substantive change. See also Sections 4110 (“condominium plan”), 4160 (“person”).

Article 5. Operating Rules

§ 6100. Requirements for validity and enforceability

6100. An operating rule is valid and enforceable only if all of the following requirements are satisfied:

(a) The rule is in writing.

(b) The rule is within the authority of the board conferred by law or by the declaration, articles of incorporation or association, or bylaws of the association.

(c) The rule is not inconsistent with governing law and the declaration, articles of incorporation or association, and bylaws of the association.

(d) The rule is adopted, amended, or repealed in good faith and in substantial compliance with the requirements of this chapter.

(e) The rule is reasonable.

Comment. Section 6100 continues former Section 1357.110 without substantive change. See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4085 (“board”), 4125 (“declaration”), 4155 (“operating rule”).

§ 6110. Application of rulemaking procedures

6110. (a) Sections 6115 and 6120 only apply to an operating rule that relates to one or more of the following subjects:
(1) Use of the common area or of an exclusive use common area.

(2) Use of a separate interest, including any aesthetic or architectural standards that govern alteration of a separate interest.

(3) Member discipline, including any schedule of monetary penalties for violation of the governing documents and any procedure for the imposition of penalties.

(4) Any standards for delinquent assessment payment plans.

(5) Any procedures adopted by the association for resolution of disputes.

(6) Any procedures for reviewing and approving or disapproving a proposed physical change to a member’s separate interest or to the common area.

(b) Sections 6115 and 6120 do not apply to the following actions by the board:

(1) A decision regarding maintenance of the common area.

(2) A decision on a specific matter that is not intended to apply generally.

(3) A decision setting the amount of a regular or special assessment.

(4) A rule change that is required by law, if the board has no discretion as to the substantive effect of the rule change.

(5) Issuance of a document that merely repeats existing law or the governing documents.

Comment. Section 6110 continues former Section 1357.120 without substantive change.

See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4085 (“board”), 4090 (“common area”), 4135 (“exclusive use common area”), 4140 (“governing documents”), 4150 (“member”), 4155 (“operating rule”), 4170 (“rule change”), 4175 (“separate interest”).

§ 6115. Approval of rule change by board

6115. (a) The board shall provide general notice (Section 4045) of a proposed rule change at least 30 calendar days before making the rule change. The notice shall include the text of the proposed rule change and a description of the purpose and effect of the proposed rule change. Notice is not required under this subdivision if the board determines that an immediate rule change is necessary to address an imminent threat to public health or safety or imminent risk of substantial economic loss to the association.

(b) A proposed rule change may be approved by the board (Section 4050).

(c) As soon as possible after approving a rule change, but not more than 15 calendar days after approving the rule change, the board shall provide general notice (Section 4045) of the rule change. If the rule change was an emergency rule change made under subdivision (d), the notice shall include the text of the rule change, a description of the purpose and effect of the rule change, and the date that the rule change expires.

(d) If the board determines that an immediate rule change is required to address an imminent threat to public health or safety, or an imminent risk of substantial economic loss to the association, the board may approve an emergency rule change (Section 4050) without providing general notice (Section 4045) of the proposed rule change. An emergency rule change is effective for 120 calendar days.
days, unless the board provides for a shorter effective period. A rule change made under this subdivision may not be readopted under this subdivision.

Comment. Section 6115 restates former Section 1357.130 without substantive change. See Sections 4045 (general notice), 4050 (approved by the board).
See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4085 (“board”), 4170 (“rule change”).

§ 6120. Reversal of rule change by members

6120. (a) Members of an association owning five percent or more of the separate interests may call a special meeting of the members to reverse a rule change that was approved by the board.

(b) A special meeting of the members may be called by delivering a request to the board (Section 4035) that includes the requisite number of member signatures, after which the board shall provide general notice (Section 4045) of the meeting and hold the meeting in conformity with Section 7511 of the Corporations Code. A written request may only be delivered within 30 calendar days after general notice (Section 4045) of the rule change or enforcement of the resulting rule, whichever occurs first.

(c) For the purposes of Section 8330 of the Corporations Code, collection of signatures to call a special meeting under this section is a purpose reasonably related to the interests of the members of the association. A member request to copy or inspect the membership list solely for that purpose may not be denied on the grounds that the purpose is not reasonably related to the member’s interests as a member.

(d) A decision to reverse a rule change may be approved by a majority of a quorum of the members (Section 4060), or if the declaration or bylaws require a greater proportion, by the affirmative vote or written ballot of the proportion required. In lieu of calling the meeting described in this section, the board may distribute a written ballot to every member of the association in conformity with the requirements of Section 7513 of the Corporations Code.

(e) Unless otherwise provided in the declaration, articles of incorporation, or bylaws, for the purposes of this section, a member may cast one vote per separate interest owned.

(f) A meeting called under this section is governed by Chapter 5 (commencing with Section 7510) of Part 3 of Division 2 of Title 1 of, and Sections 7612 and 7613 of, the Corporations Code.

(g) A rule change reversed under this section may not be readopted for one year after the date of the meeting reversing the rule change. Nothing in this section precludes the board from adopting a different rule on the same subject as the rule change that has been reversed.

(h) As soon as possible after the close of voting, but not more than 15 calendar days after the close of voting, the board shall provide general notice (Section 4045) of the results of the member vote.
(i) This section does not apply to an emergency rule change made under subdivision (d) of Section 6115.

Comment. Section 6120 continues former Section 1357.140 without substantive change. See Sections 4035 (delivered to board) 4045 (general notice), 4065 (approved by majority of quorum of the members).

See also Sections 4080 (“association”), 4085 (“board”), 4125 (“declaration”), 4150 (“member”), 4170 (“rule change”), 4175 (“separate interest”).

☞ Staff Note. A future installment of the proposed law will address general procedures for meetings. That installment will reconcile the differences the notice requirements provided in the proposed law and those provided in the Corporations Code.

§ 6125. Applicability of article to changes commenced before and after January 1, 2004

6125. (a) This article applies to a rule change commenced on or after January 1, 2004.

(b) Nothing in this article affects the validity of a rule change commenced before January 1, 2004.

(c) For the purposes of this section, a rule change is commenced when the board takes its first official action leading to adoption of the rule change.

Comment. Section 6125 continues former Section 1357.150 without substantive change.

See also Sections 4085 (“board”), 4170 (“rule change”).

Article 6. Unlawful Restrictions

§ 6150. Discriminatory restriction

6150. (a) No governing document shall include a restrictive covenant in violation of Section 12955 of the Government Code.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of law or provision of the governing documents, the board shall amend the governing documents to delete the unlawful restrictive covenant and to restate the governing document without the deleted restrictive covenant. No other person is required to approve the amendment.

(c) If the declaration is amended under this section, the board shall record the restated declaration in each county in which the common interest development is located. If the articles of incorporation are amended under this section, the board shall file a certificate of amendment pursuant to Section 7814 of the Corporations Code.

(d) The Department of Fair Employment and Housing, a city or county in which a common interest development is located, or any other person may provide written notice to a board (Section 6030) requesting that it comply with this section. If the board fails to comply with this section within 30 calendar days after delivery of the notice under this subdivision, the person who sent the notice may bring an action against the association for injunctive relief to enforce this section. The court may award attorney’s fees to the prevailing party.

Comment. Section 6150 restates former Section 1352.5 without substantive change, except that subdivision (c) is added. See Section 4030 (delivery to board).
See also Sections 4080 ("association"), 4085 ("board"), 4095 ("common interest development"), 4125 ("declaration"), 4140 ("governing documents"), 4160 ("person").

☞ Staff Note. The use of the term “restrictive covenant” in existing Section 1352.5 would seem to limit its scope to a discriminatory provision in the recorded declaration (see Civ. Code § 1468(d) (covenant must be recorded to bind successive owners)). That is contrary to the express terms of the section, which provide that it applies to a “declaration or other governing documents.” Would it be appropriate to replace the term “restrictive covenant” with the broader term “rule or restriction”?

Article 7. Construction of Documents

§ 6175. Liberal construction of instruments
6175. (a) Any deed, declaration, or condominium plan for a common interest development shall be liberally construed to facilitate the operation of the common interest development, and its provisions shall be presumed to be independent and severable.

(b) Nothing in Article 3 (commencing with Section 715) of Chapter 2 of Title 2 of Part 1 of Division 2 shall operate to invalidate any provisions of the governing documents of a common interest development.

Comment. Section 6175 continues former Section 1370 without substantive change.

See also Sections 4095 ("common interest development"), 4110 ("condominium plan"), 4125 ("declaration"), 4140 ("governing documents").

§ 6180. Boundaries of units
6180. In interpreting a deed or condominium plan, the existing physical boundaries of a unit in a condominium project, when the boundaries of the unit are contained within a building, or of a unit reconstructed in substantial accordance with the original plans thereof, shall be conclusively presumed to be its boundaries rather than the metes and bounds expressed in the deed or condominium plan, if any exists, regardless of settling or lateral movement of the building and regardless of minor variance between boundaries shown on the plan or in the deed and those of the building.

Comment. Section 6180 continues former Section 1371 without substantive change.

See also Sections 4110 ("condominium plan"), 4115 ("condominium project").
